our life is a kaleidoscope of colors . . . of experience . . .
of moods within a university, within a town

There is solace in the sound of rain . . .
a peaceful moment in a busy day.
A being tiny as a butterfly evokes the wonder of all creation.

Events conspire to confound the student. Big things, small things . . . the game lost, four finals in one day, lack of parking space . . . bring overwhelming frustration.

Excitement grips one spectator, infects another, unites multitudes. Tension, purpose, relief . . . point and counterpoint in crazy rhythm.

Among the hustling crowds, the mingling throngs, loneliness can set the soul apart.
Low spirits find expression in solitude . . .
there is only room for one in a blue world.

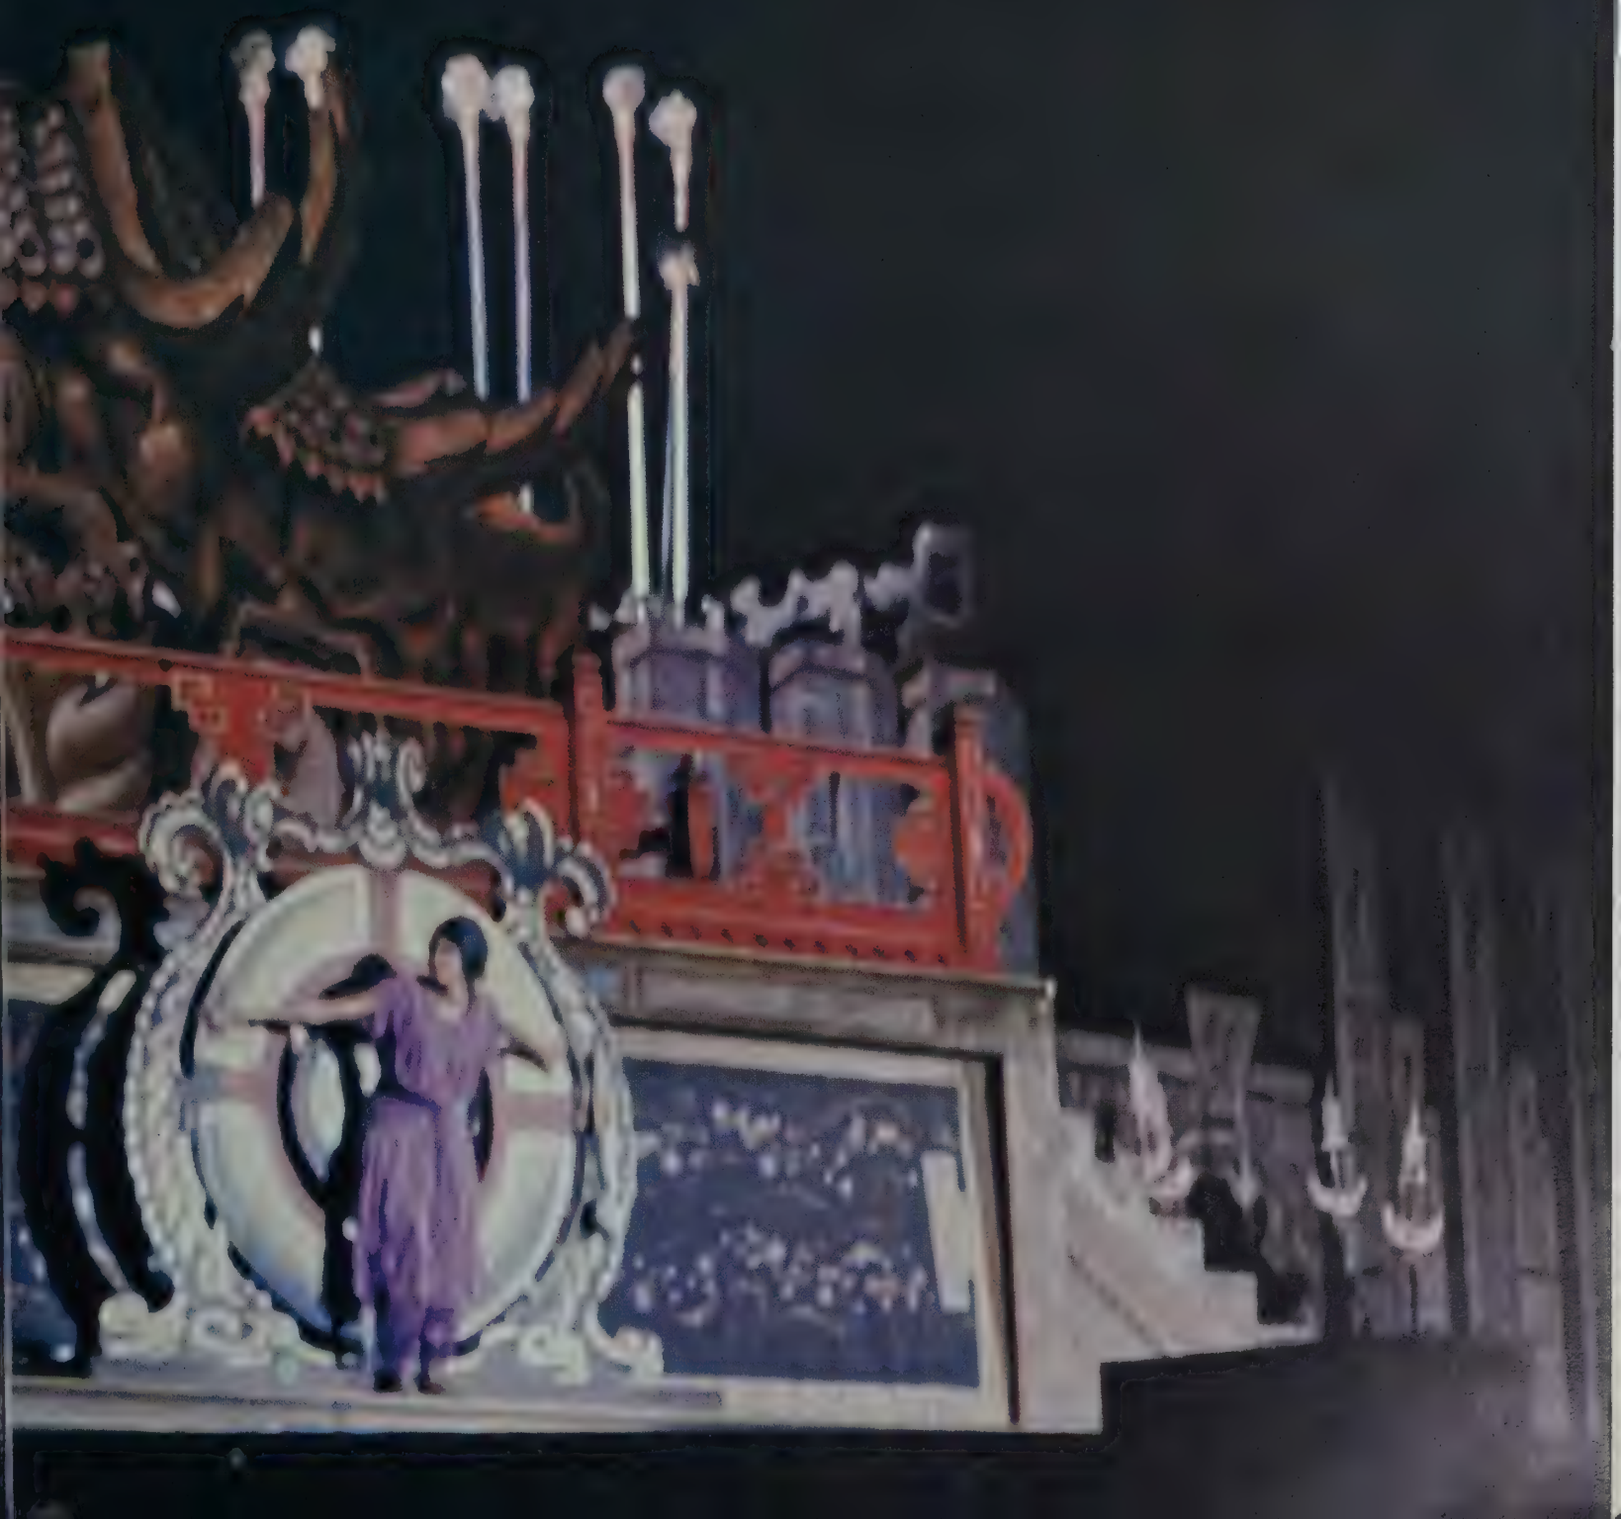

Two people sharing a smile, a thought . . . love is life's crowning beauty. A glow touches the heart and leaves the soul breathless.

spring softens mood

SUNSHINE DRIFTS through the small green leaves beginning to mature on recently bare tree branches. Students shed heavy winter coats in anticipation of the annual Bloomington monsoon season. Filled with the prospects of spring activities, they take to the outdoors. Picnics, bicycle riding, relaxing strolls are all a part of the reawakening as spring invades the university campus.

honors, tradition keynote founding

SCHOLASTIC ACHIEVEMENT dominated the scene as Indiana University's 4000 scholars and sages gathered together to celebrate the one hundred forty-fourth anniversary of the founding of I. U. President Elvis J. Stahr, aided by other university officials, presided over the traditional Founder's Day ceremonies. During the program, the annual awards for exceptional contributions in education were presented to six members of the faculty. An afternoon reception honoring the outstanding students and their families preceded the climax of the day—a pilgrimage to the grave of Dr. Andrew Wylie, first President of Indiana.

cyclists seek soggy victory

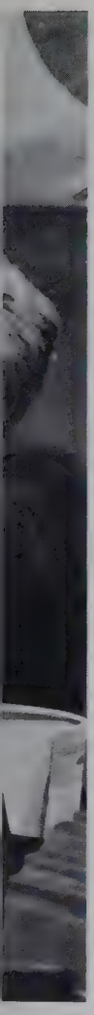

SPURRED ON by the gleam of the winner's trophy, this year's cycling teams pedaled into action as the crack of a pistol opened the 1964 "Little 500." Tension rose and cinders flew as the teams tirelessly ground out lap after lap, seemingly oblivious to possible danger. The spectators were near frenzy as Beta Theta Pi flashed across the finish line seconds ahead of last year's victors, the SAE's. Exhausted but elated, the team submitted to the traditional soggy ritual—a thorough dunking.

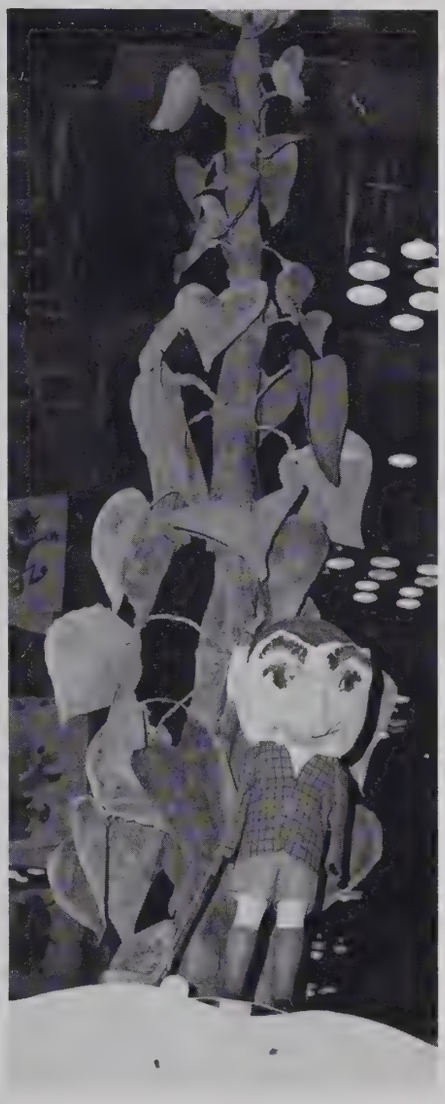

tales of mini-ha-ha delight racing fans

"MINI MADNESS" began as early as April, when the sororities and women's housing units selected their teams of riders. The teams practiced several hours a night on oversized tricycles until the day before the race. The theme of the Mini Parade was "Mini Ha Ha," with each entry portraying a fairy tale or nursery rhyme and centering around the traditional emphasis on scholarship. But the parade could not break the tension that weeks of practice had built. Each race lasted about forty to fifty seconds, and in that time there was heartbreak or happiness for the anxious riders and their backers. Within a few hours, the winning team was joyously celebrating; losers looked to the next Mini.

DESPITE RAINY WEATHER Friday night, the Extravaganza went on with the Lettermen entertaining Mini crowds in the new fieldhouse. After the race, the Little 500 Weekend came to a close for 10,000 students and guests at one of the four Variety Shows presented in I. U.'s auditorium. On hand for each show was the ever popular "ski nose" Bob Hope whose antics and jokes filled audiences with laughter. With Mr. Hope, on Saturday, appeared the 1964 Little 500 Sweetheart, Molly Bee, and the Lettermen. On Sunday the Four Preps rounded out the spectacular show.

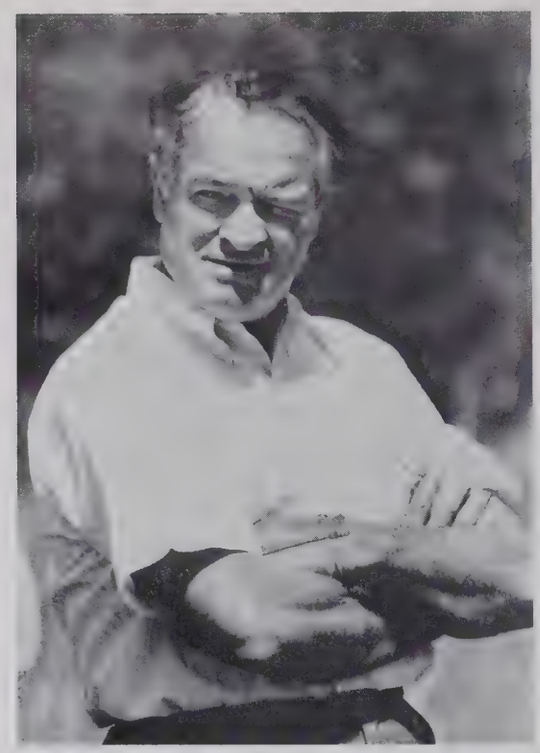

extravaganza and variety show

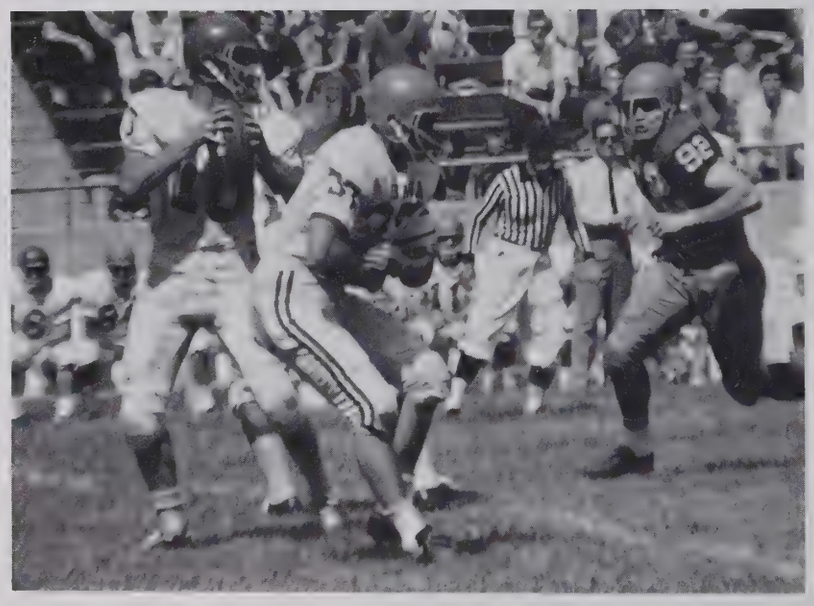

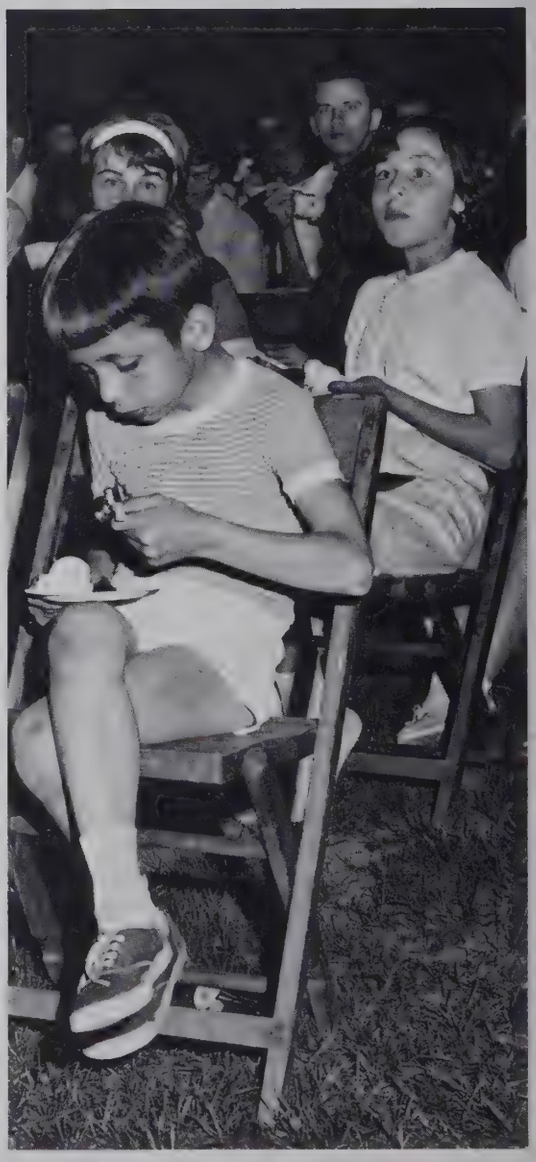

LIVING UP TO ITS REPUTATION as "The World's Greatest College Weekend," Little 500 again spread its magic over I. U. The men of Acacia social fraternity entertained the campus with their Ice Cream Social. Smooth harmony by the Lettermen captured audiences; Jerry Lee Lewis provided the beat for swingers at the Bike Bounce. Excitement mounted at the traditional Cream and Crimson game and the Golf Jamboree, where comic Bob Hope guest-starred.

500 weekend whirl

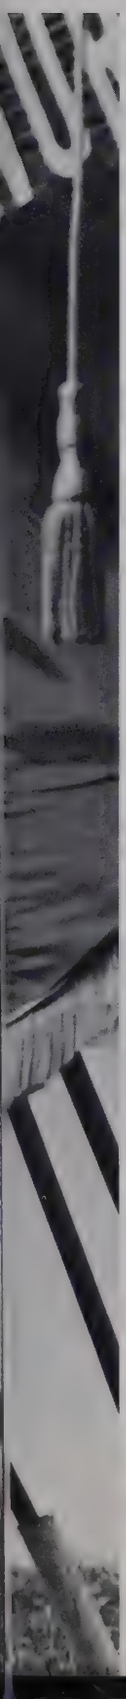

diplomas, gowns,

GRADUATES RECEIVED DIPLOMAS outside tents near the Fieldhouse, as the usual commencement nostalgia aroused memories of Little 500, library study tables, all-night vigils, relaxing in the Commons, and football weekends. Before ceremonies, grads picked up caps and gowns, bought tassels, registered guests. The Union bustled with alumni and honors' receptions and dinners; while not at receptions, alumni toured the campus to see its changes and renew some memories of their own. The stifling weekend drew 22,500 guests to Memorial Stadium as President Elvis J. Stahr addressed the 5350 candidates receiving their long awaited degrees.

mortarboards crown seniors' big day

FANS, SUNGLASSES, and casual clothes comprised the bulk of summer gear needed by the 12,000 plus students who studied away their summer on I. U.'s campus. The quiet of Jordan's rippling waters and rustling foliage was broken as students moved outside in search of faint breezes and cool shade trees. With campus activities almost nil, study dates, shows, and swimming at Lake Lemon provided social life. Migration from stuffy dorms to crowded sundecks and air-conditioned libraries rounded out the season's curriculum.

OPERA IN NEW YORK CITY is nothing new, but when the School of Music took its spectacular outdoor production of Puccini's "Turandot" to the World's Fair, visitors from all over were treated to something special. The cast and orchestra, 388 students in all, moved into the Fair's Singer Bowl for two performances, August 17 and 18, as Indiana's official representatives. The first night's performance drew 6,700 people and the praise of many New York critics.

THE SECOND NIGHT, the worst happened. For the first time in two years of "opera under the stars" a performance was rained out. It had rained in the evening, but stopped in time for a large crowd to gather while crews dried out the Bowl. Then in the first act it came down again. The orchestra scurried for cover. The cast and most of the audience waited, but Dean Bain had to tell the damp but enthusiastic waiters that the show couldn't go on.

R BOWL

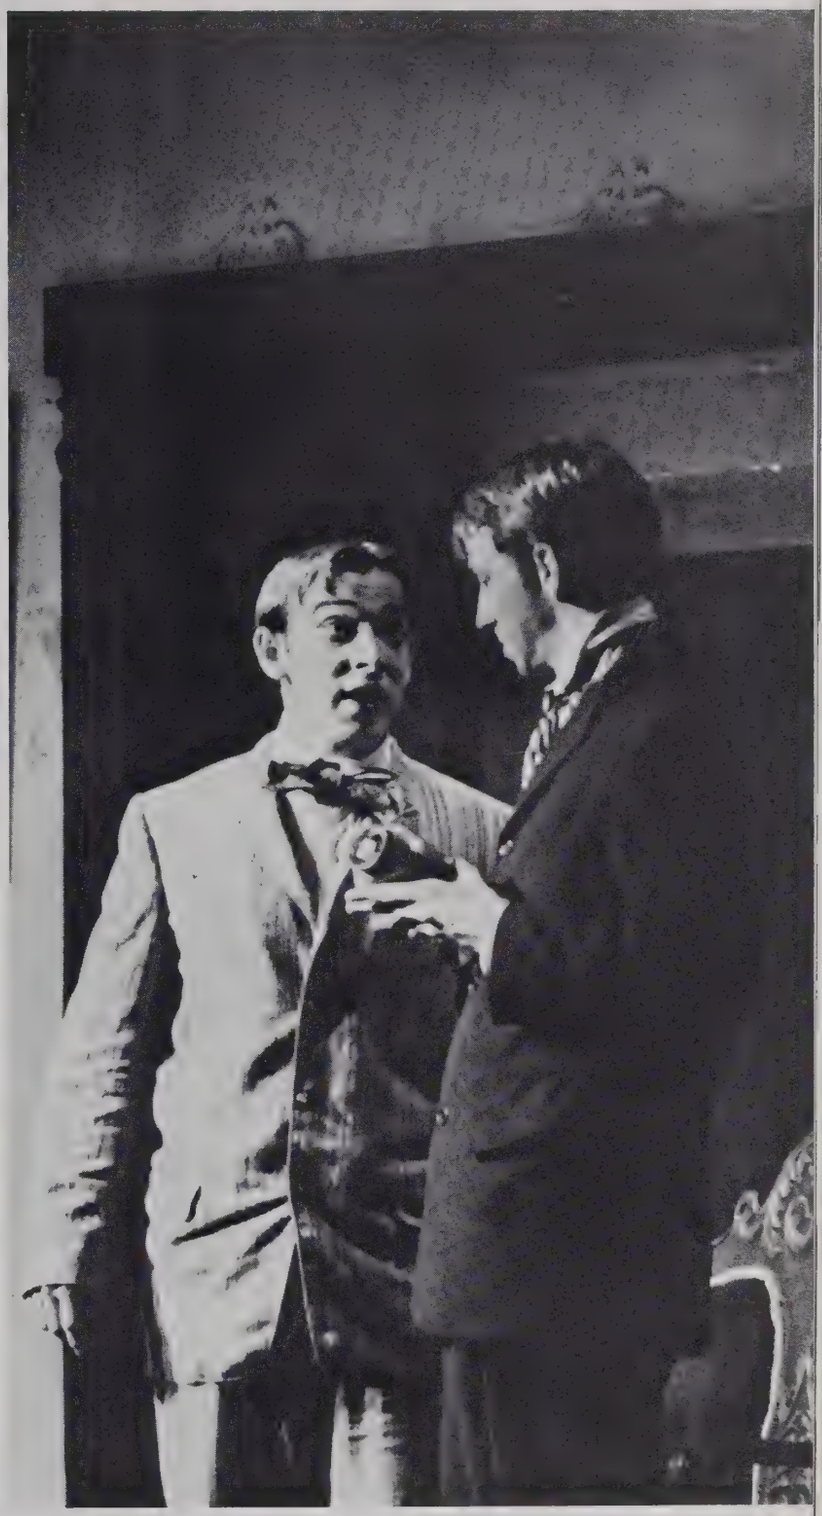

OVERFLOW AUDIENCES rocked the "straw hat theater" with applause when ten I. U. dramatists performed at the Brown County Playhouse last summer. The playhouse in Nashville changed its bill three times during the lively season, but the cast kept up the pressing pace. Having one's hair dyed conspicuously red for "Life with Father", a thirteen hour day of classes and rehearsals, and sweltering footlights on hot summer nights, all added up to a summer's worth of experience.

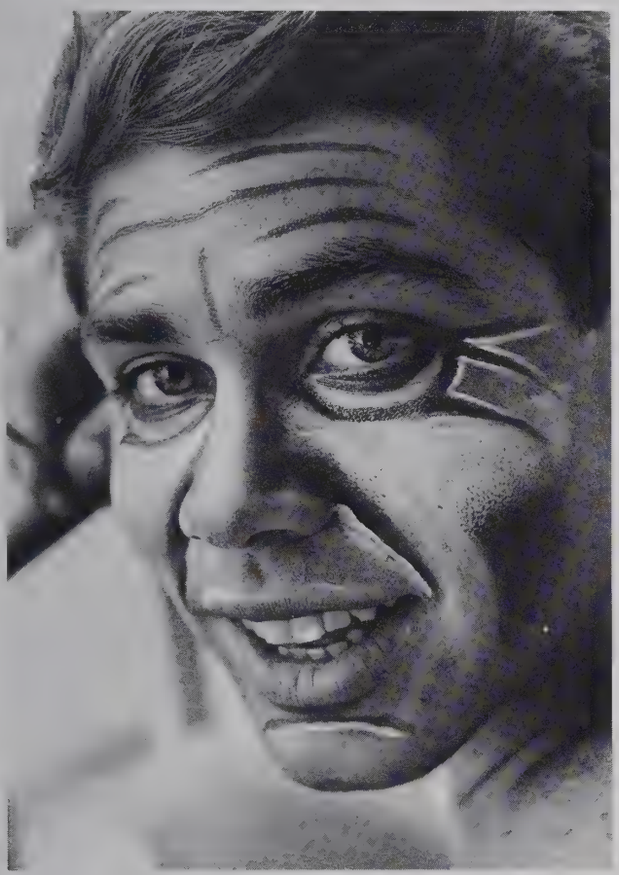

summer refresher: theater in a barn

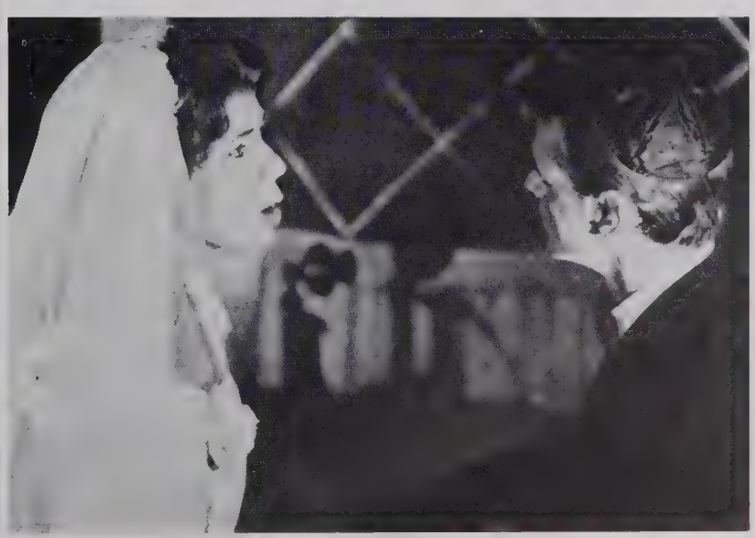

paddlewheel playhouse on the ohio

SWABBING DECKS, drydocking riverboats, and stoking coal for a steam calliope may not depict the normal routine of a Thespian troupe, but add this to daily rehearsals and plenty of greasepaint and you have 70 Showboat Majestic performances. Distinguished visitors included President Elvis J. Stahr and family, who toured the floating playhouse with executive director Richard A. Moody.

As record crowds saw melodramas "Arsenic and Old Lace" or "Abie's Irish Rose," a 13-man cast, plus staff, crowded into hot, stuffy cabins atop the "theater" for their fifth summer tour down the Ohio. The barnstormers doubled as ushers, sold taffy at intermission, added "Variety Frolics" to their summer of experience.

GOLDEN LEAVES swirl to the ground, burying walks under crackling brown carpets. Twenty thousand students bring the campus back to life, as Hoosiers take advantage of Indian summer weather for outdoor study dates, football games, trips to Brown County. All too soon autumn, 1964, fades into winter's blustery winds.

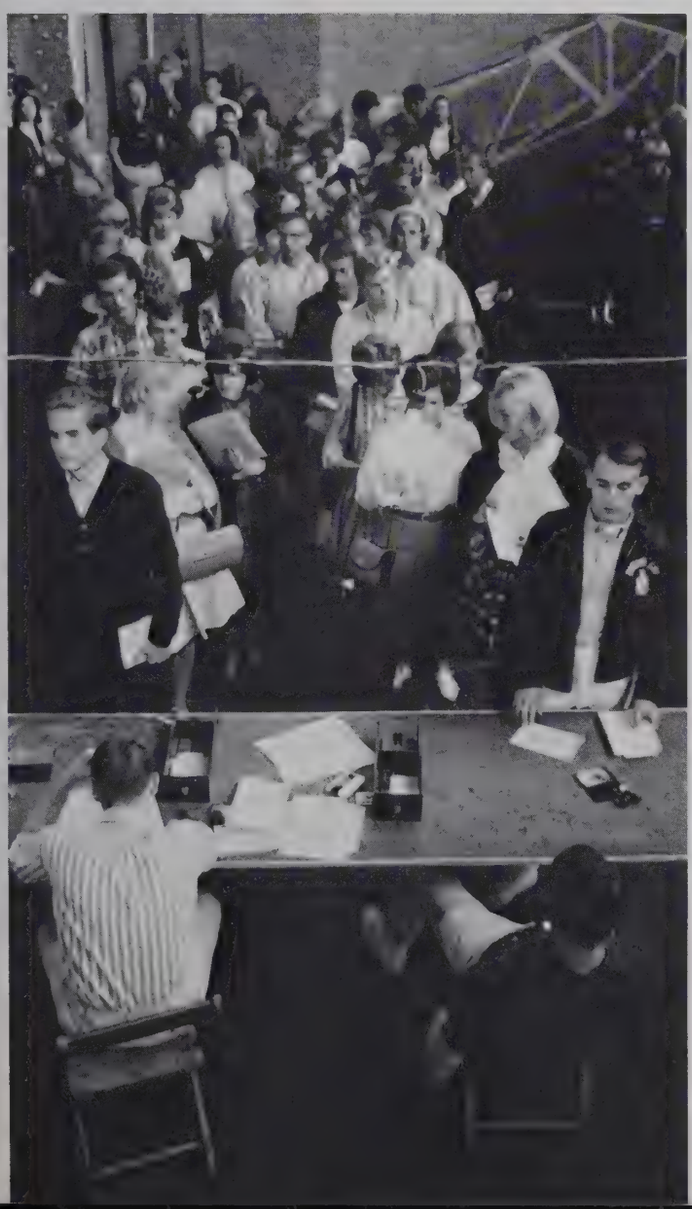

REGISTRATION this year was beset with the usual full measure of sore feet, dusty throats, serpentine lines, awkward efficiency, and normal confusion. There was, however, one change. Due to the summer's pre-enrollment of freshmen, almost all of those participating in the annual battle for decent schedules were experienced combattants. Thus the haggling, debating, arguing, and pleading were carried on with a skill and spirit seldom seen outside a bargain basement. In spite of this, most students completed the ordeal with reasonable facsimiles of the desired schedules.

ENTHUSIASTIC THRONGS welcomed the autumn season with a big beat at four fast-paced outdoor dances. After the Lambda Chi Alphas celebrated on their lawn, Sigma Phi Epsilon and Alpha Chi Omega hosted the "Grum" on the tennis courts of North Jordan. A newcomer on the social scene, the "Cob", sponsored by Alpha Epsilon Pi and Delta Zeta, featured corn on the cob for all. Down by Delta Tau Delta there was dancing in the street; with three bands the rhythm never lagged. Without a doubt the Fall of 1964 can boast of a livelier tradition than any, and dance enthusiasts are already making plans for a swinging '65.

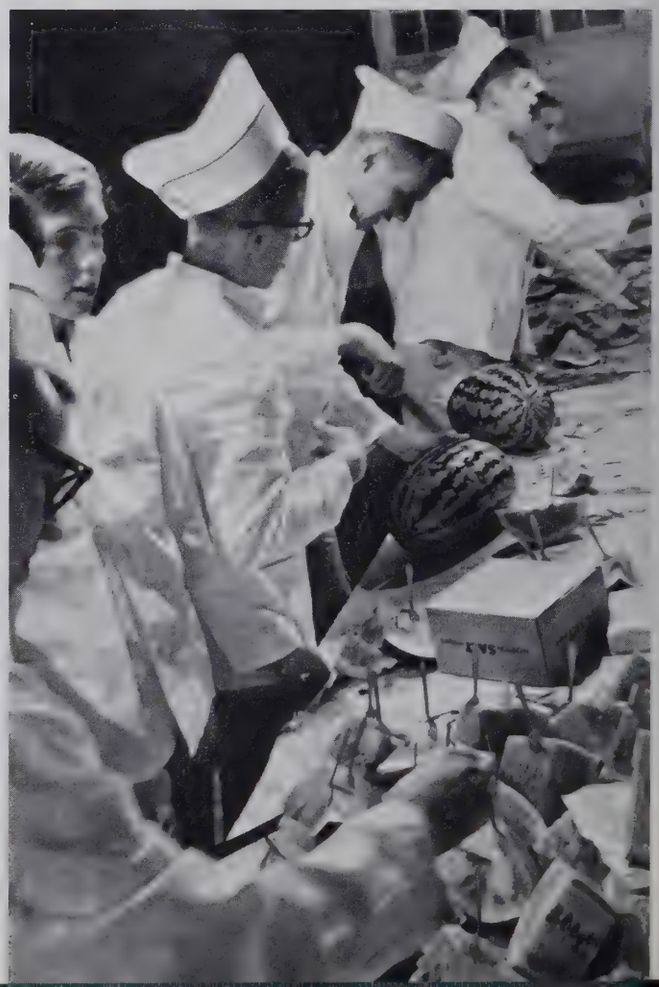

drums, crowds, fall - dancers' delight

melon-munching, music - great pastimes

MASS "MESS" created this scene of destruction at the corner of Sixth and Indiana during the Sigma Chi's eighteenth annual Melon Mess. One thousand juicy melons were served to students by sorority pledges while Rick and the Rivieras provided a bouncy background beat. But munching melons is not autumn's only traditional event at I. U. Listening to the music of various campus folk-singing groups at the Phi Kappa Tau Tau's yearly hootenanny also provided a popular pastime for folk music enthusiasts. Sounds of guitars, home-made band instruments, and audience singalongs filled the chilly October night.

weary but hopeful rushees make rounds

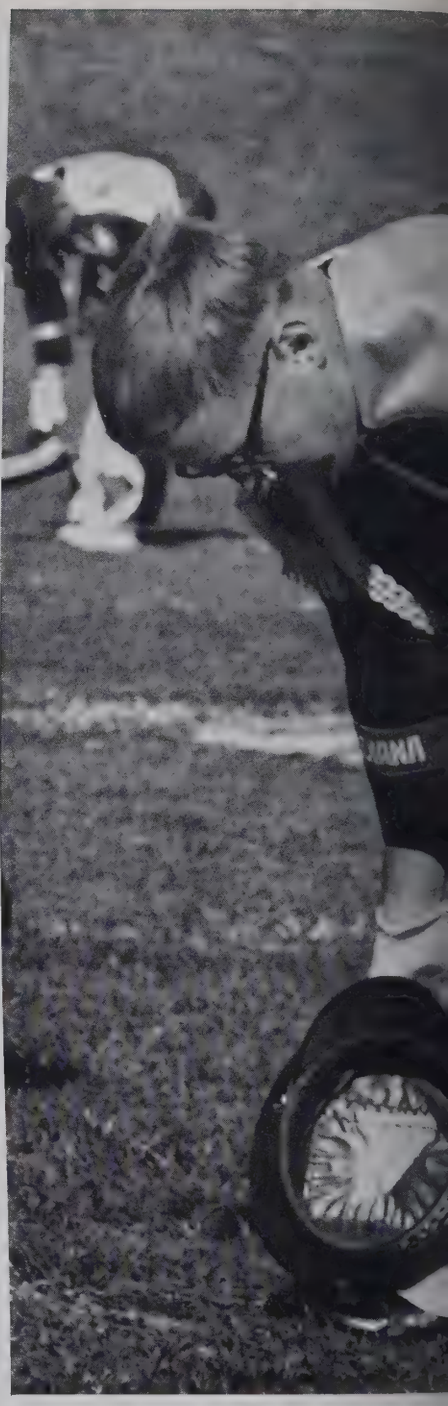

WALKING BRISKLY through the crisp fallen leaves, sorority rushees met at each sorority house on campus for their first, long anticipated glimpse of sorority life. New faces and happy talk were in order during the formal fall rush teas. The scene shifting to snow and zero weather, Greek girls again rolled out the red carpet for the more informal coke parties. After semester finals ended, the Greeks again prepared for their rushees and future pledges. The decision time drew near as the rushees attended the final exciting whirl of formal rush, climaxed by pledge dinners, and the first meetings of the new pledge classes.

marching 100: a group on the go

THE MARCHING HUNDRED'S frantic performance schedule became even more hectic this year with the addition of a fifth home football game. Despite the rugged pace, the band sparkled each half-time in shows with themes ranging from Shakespeare to the freshman class. The season's high point came for the "Hundred" when they accompanied the football team to the Miami Orange Bowl, becoming the first group from the Big Ten ever to perform in that famous stadium. The band's 155 members again and again proved themselves a colorful, high-stepping unit, deserving the title "one of America's finest."

HOMECOMING'S EFFERVESCENT SPIRITS once again filled the air as students and alumni participated in one of the greatest homecoming weekends ever. Lawn decorations and floats colored the campus, while victory buttons displayed the students' sparkling enthusiasm. A spirited pep rally emphasized the "Sound off for Victory" theme. Later, queen Jennifer Luce and her court were presented at the annual blanket hop; Tom Green, winner of the first campus chest fund raising contest, received his laurels as Sagamore of the Jordan. The Indiana Memorial Union's Variety Show with Pete Fountain rounded off the festivities.

hoosiers visit cow country

"BEAT PURDUE" FEVER paced Hoosier plans to storm the northern campus and reclaim the Old Oaken Bucket at the fortieth annual football clash. Victory Wishing Well, displays, and posters thickened the famous rivalry. The Daily Student dubbed PU players "marked men" and told of their "clearing the north pasture of cows for the big game." Students reverently attended the wake of Jawn Purdue outside the Commons as a Pershing Rifle honor guard protected it from any Purdue efforts to kidnap the infamous body. Jawn was traditionally cremated and buried at a cold Friday pep rally; Purdue, in turn, burned Miss Indiana. Hoosiers then braved snow and zero degree weather in the "land of cows and IBMs" to boost the Cream and Crimson; but I. U. failed to add the coveted link, losing by a scant 28-22.

VARIETY OF GREAT TALENTS was the outstanding characteristic of the Indiana Memorial Union Board's pop concert series. What more could one ask for than Henry Mancini and his orchestra; unless it might be the Kingston Trio, singer Julie London, jazz-man Al Hirt, or pianists Ferrante and Teicher? Each of the shows created a mood all its own, whether it was one of sophistication, the easy casualness of a folk-sing, or the intimate atmosphere of a night club.

audiences enjoy spectrum of moods

BLASTING, DRIFTING, silently sifting, Winter nearly paralyzed the campus with its late but blustery series of blitzes that more than compensated for a calm and warm November. Fresh snowfalls heralded spontaneous snowball fights and floundering to classes in knee-high drifts. The student knows the joys and woes of winter; an open fire, a snowbound car, campus night lights glistening on a snowy blanket, the crackling music of the ice-blocked Jordan. This is a time for formal events, study, quiet moments for reflection.

regal atmosphere reigns at president's ball

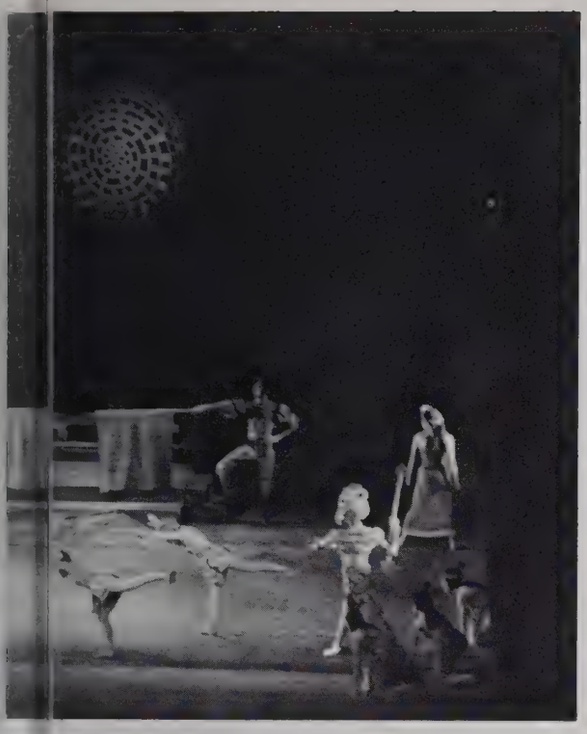

CAMELOT, THE MYTHICAL KINGDOM, abounds with airy castles, Knights of the Round Table, and legends of Arthur and Guenevere. On December 11, Camelot was transported to the Indiana Memorial Union at the President's Ball. Indiana University ladies, radiant in long formals, were escorted by their knights up the ramp, across the moat, and into the magic kingdom of Camelot, where, for a few shining hours, Camelot became reality. With Les Elgart's band playing, music ranged from soft to swing, and President and Mrs. Stahr greeted each couple on the stage. Dancers also enjoyed the refreshments provided at a "cocktail hour" in the splendid Old English atmosphere of the Tudor Room. At twelve o'clock the land of happy-ever-aftering faded again into legend, and regal couples became casual students.

series attract top talent

CAPACITY AUDIENCES flocked to the University's cultural and entertainment center to enjoy the outstanding concert attractions and musical personalities presented in the Auditorium Series' twenty-fifth successful season. Music fans thrilled to the mastery of Soviet pianist Emil Gillels, and chuckled at the humor of the D'Oyly Carte Opera Company, Gilbert and Sullivan's original troupe. America's greatest dance company, the New York City Ballet, brought its own colorful grace to the University's auditorium stage.

The eighth Celebrity Series opened on a light note with the comedy "Never Too Late" and spectacular French star Zizi Jeanmarie. Bringing the series to a climax was the current Broadway musical "Oliver." For those who lost their hearts to the theater this season, the two series already promise to bring exciting talent to campus next year.

drama delights crowds

UNIVERSITY THEATER, the campus showcase for dramatic art, sought, this year, to give its audiences another varied bouquet of theatrical experience by presenting plays ranging from the popular "Life with Father," to a soberer work, "The Queen and the Rebels," and a recent off-Broadway comedy, "Oh Dad, Poor Dad. . . . ." The season's first play, Moliere's madcap farce, "The Doctor in Spite of Himself," combined members of the show's summer casts from the Brown County Playhouse and the Showboat Majestic. Turning the tables, members of the faculty donned greasepaint and presented G. B. Shaw's "Heartbreak House" to raise funds for the Ralph L. Collins memorial lectureship.

lavish productions fill opera stage

PAGEANTRY, COLOR, and technical experimentation gave the Opera Theatre one of its busiest seasons ever. After its performance at I. U., "Madame Butterfly" was taken on an extended tour and later videotaped for television presentation. The Theatre's annual Easter offering of Wagner's melodic work, "Parsifal," was renovated as an entirely new production. By far the most lavish of the company's presentations, "Don Giovanni," filled the auditorium stage with its vivid, intricate sets. The season as a whole was characterized by tremendous variety and innovation in both sight and sound.

fine arts department

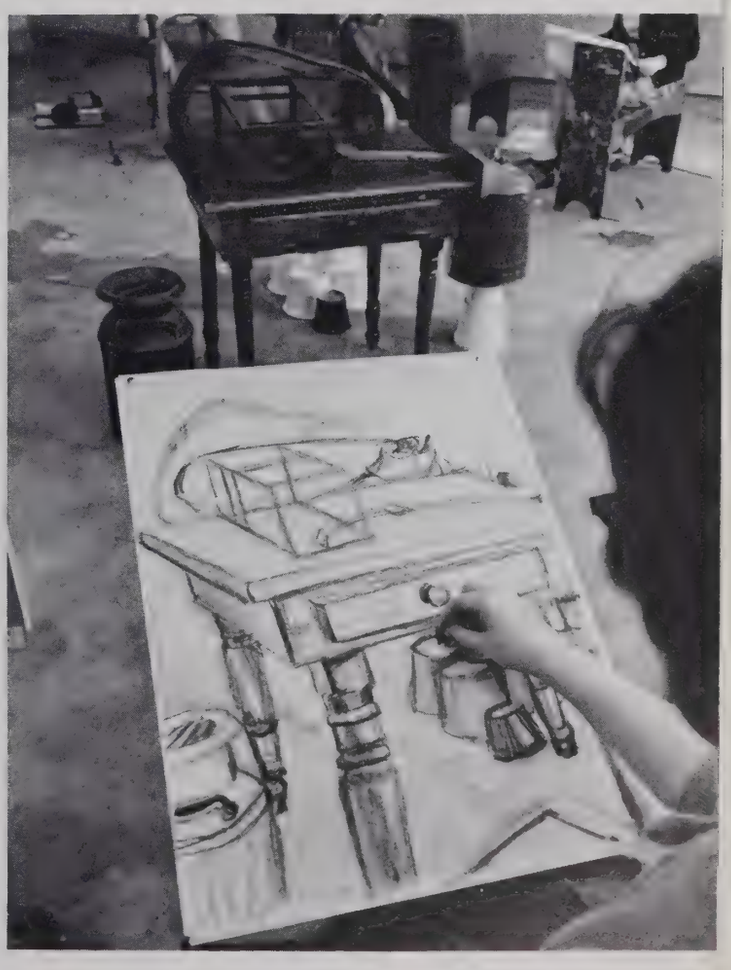

offers exhibits, educational facilities

UTILIZING FACILITIES to the maximum, the Department of Fine Arts has not only multiplied educational opportunities for its students, but has broadened its program of public lectures, increased its displays of rented and departmental works, and doubled its permanent museum collection to over 2200 objects. The three display galleries, including the print room, enable the department to provide frequent impressive exhibits. Recent showings have included a collection of works by Rodin and an exhibition of outstanding modern American painting, 1900-1960.

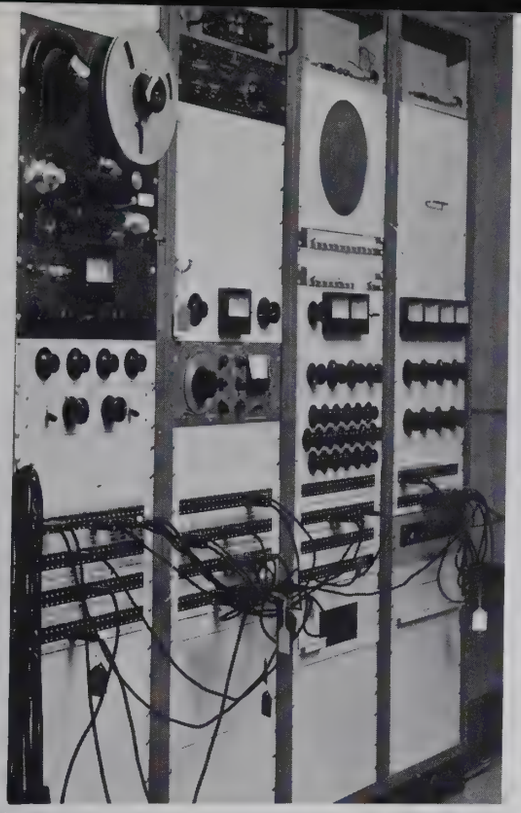

radio-tv students learn while "on the air"

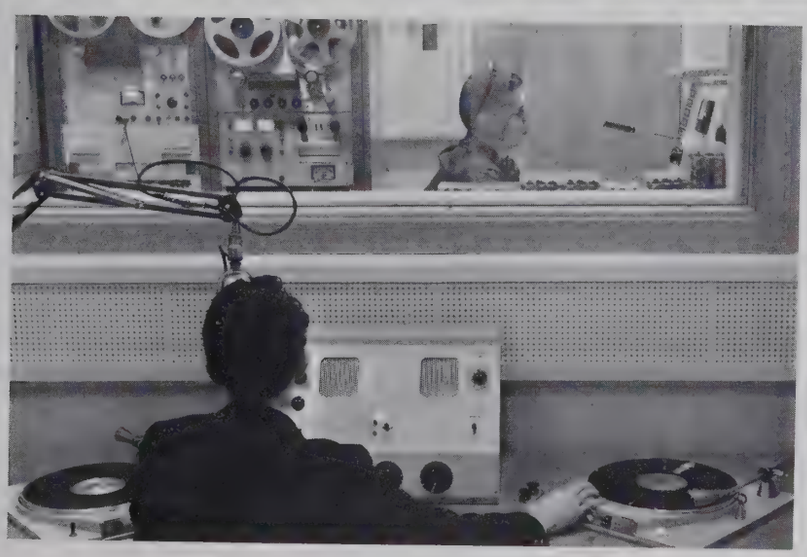

WHIPPING UP NEWSCASTS hot off the teletape, splicing videotape, or hunting for a sound-effects door keep daily activities in the Radio-TV building going at full tilt. Housing the largest school TV studio between Los Angeles and New York, the I. U. department produces daily programs for WTTV, broadcasts I. U. sports events, and handles specials for University departments. If not on the air, reserving a studio for an assignment, or compiling a music repertoir for WFIU, students watch TV for homework, in the student lounge. Long into the night staffs work over scenes, adjust light battens, and re-shoot scenes to meet the never-ending program deadlines.

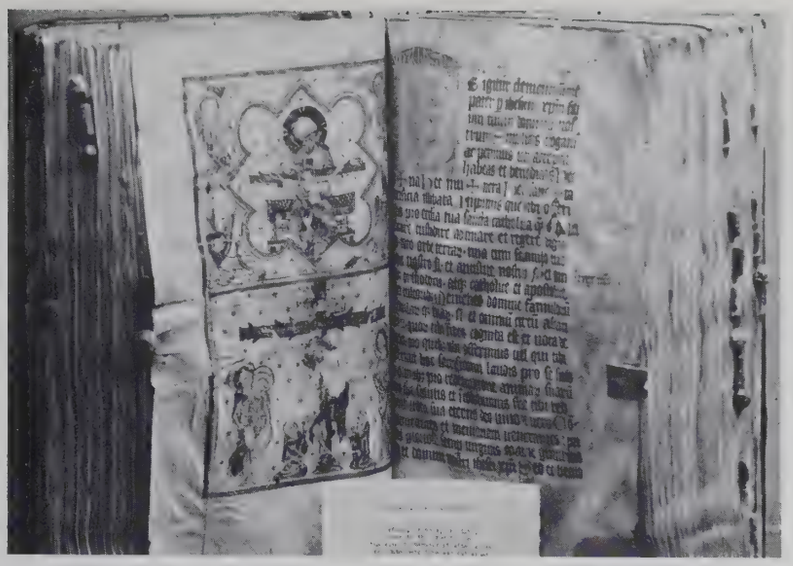

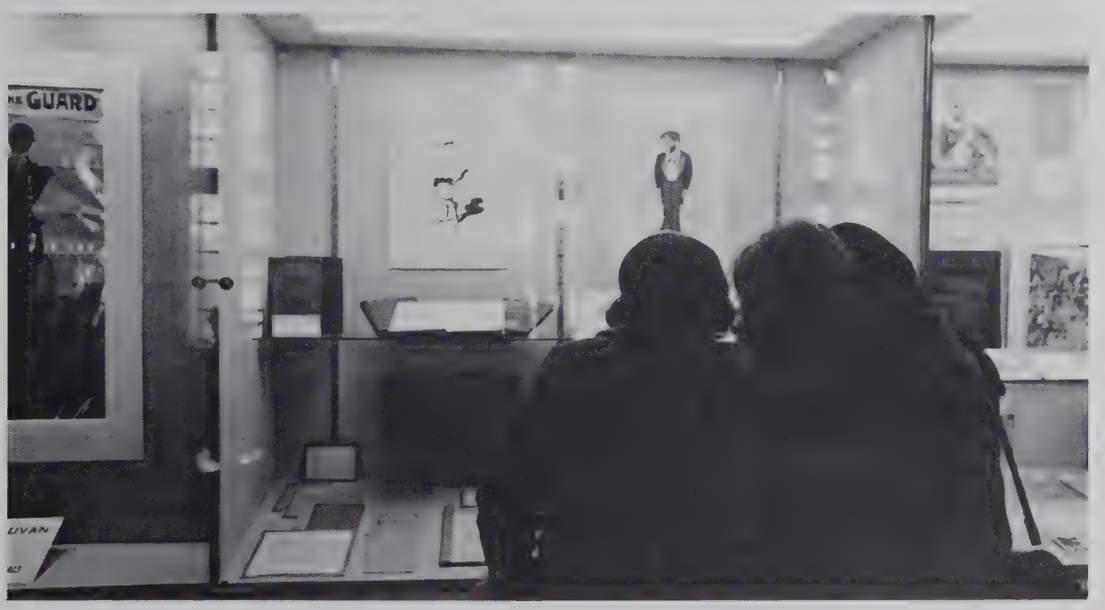

BEHIND THE MODERN WALLS of Lilly Library lie some of the oldest manuscripts and books in the world. Seen mainly by researchers, the works are available in the Lilly reading room. From the Old West atmosphere of the Ellison room and its Indian rugs to the gentlemanly poetry room, visitors see the literary treasures in naturalistic settings. Likening the White House, the Lincoln room includes a desk from his law office and the last portrait of him done from life. With author's comments in the margins are such original manuscripts as Barrie's Peter Pan, MacLeish's J. B., and Lew Wallace's Ben Hur. Extremely prized is one of America's fourteen copies of the New Testament Gutenberg Bible. Playbills from Gilbert and Sullivan, a lock of Poe's hair, and reward posters for John Wilkes Booth add to the great collections of archives in the museum setting.

harmony highlights madrigal dinners

WITH MAJESTIC ALUMNI HALL as a setting, sixteen gaily-dressed carolers raised their voices to usher in the Christmas season at the Madrigal Dinners. The dinner, a 300 year old tradition which harkens back to Shakespearean times, was filled with the things that made Merrie Olde England merrie: the wassail bowl overflowing with Christmas cheer, the boar's head, and the blazing plum pudding. A fanfare of trumpets announced the celebration of the Birth. Rounds, lullabyes, hymns, and children's songs from the old countries were sung in intricate harmony as the Singers brought a bit of sixteenth century England to twentieth century America.

SNOWLESS AS THE LANDSCAPE might remain outside, the Christmas spirit was inescapable as the campus prepared for the holidays. Sure signs of the season are the huge white and gold wreaths which traditionally decorate Venus and the buildings of the University cultural center. Inside, Santa's helpers busily decked the Union with tinselled trees, multi-colored lights, tiny reindeer, and a Mexican piñata. The atmosphere resounded with carols and Christmas cheers as students' spirits quickened and moods lightened in anticipation of the rapidly approaching holidays.

tinsel heralds holidays

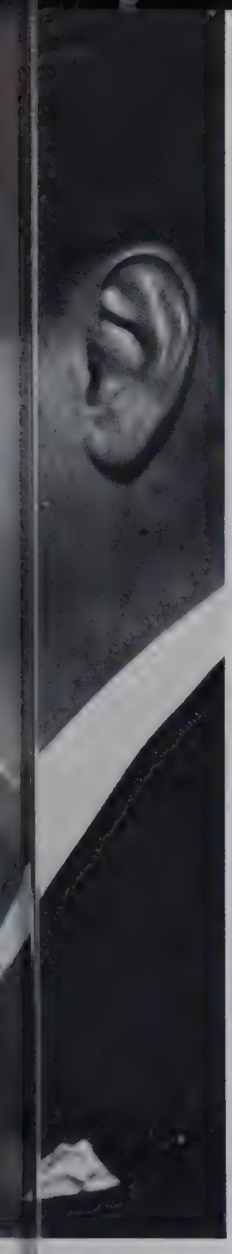

"CHRISTMAS EVE ON CAMPUS," the University's community Christmas celebration, glowed with seasonal spirit, and whetted appetites for the traditional trimmings of the approaching holidays. The evening's activities included caroling at President Stahr's home and a musical program by the Symphonic Wind Ensemble with the Singing Hoosiers. An informal dance at Alumni Hall, where I. U.'s favorite Santa Claus, Chancellor Herman B. Wells, and President Stahr crowned Donna McKinley as the newly-elected Arbutus Queen, gave students a take-home package of holiday moods.

colorful fete depicts cosmopolitan life

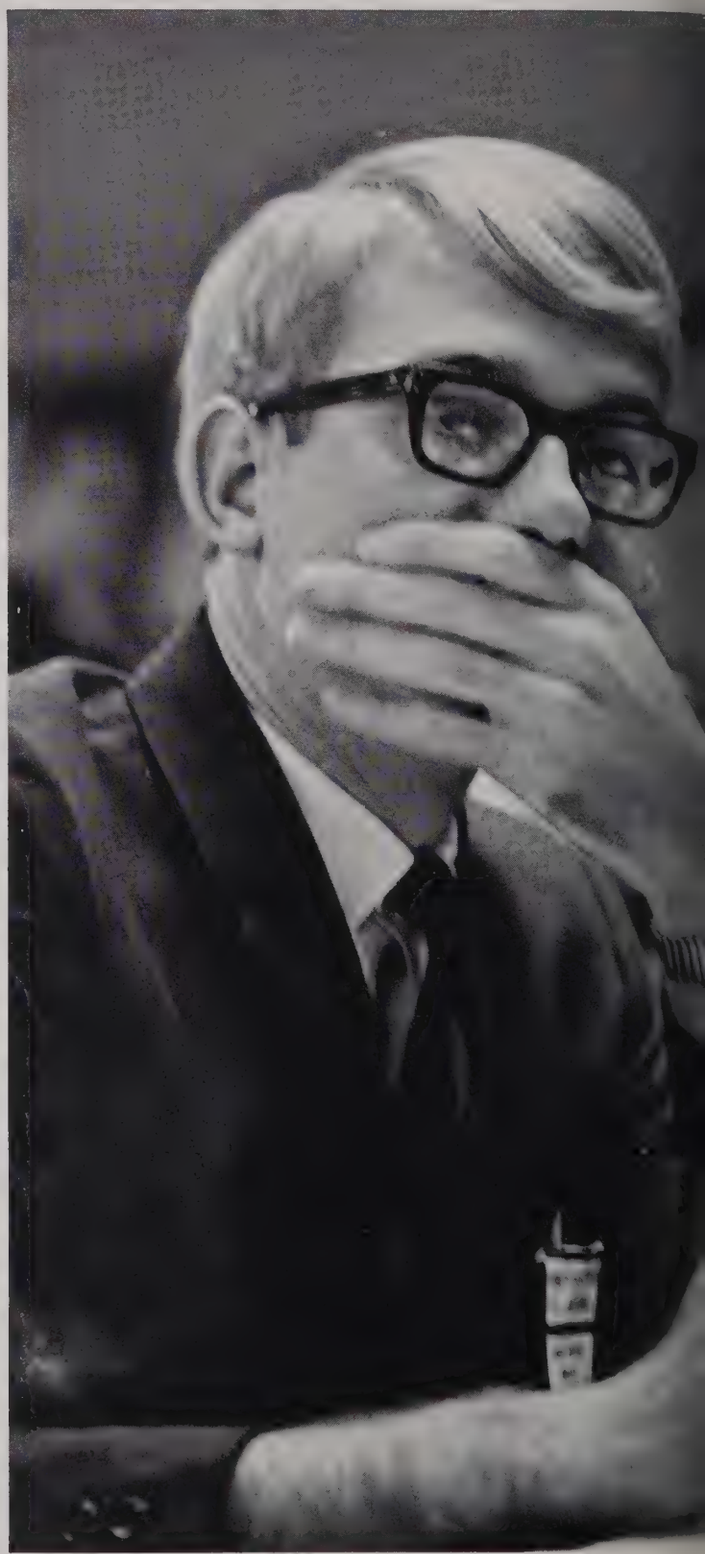

FOOD AND ENTERTAINMENT from many faraway lands were the main attractions at the Cosmopolitan Club's International Dinner. After tasting exotic foods from all over the world, the guests were treated to dancing and singing acts by their foreign hosts representing colorful aspects of their native countries. Honored guests attending the dinner were President Stahr and the ambassadors of several foreign nations.

CIVIL RIGHTS, legalized abortion—such are the issues discussed in I. U.'s Great Issues program. One hundred student senators meet once each semester in a forum patterned after the United States Senate, to draw up legislation concerning today's problems. Since Great Issues began in 1961, one of its outstanding projects has been bringing noteworthy speakers to I. U.'s campus. Headliners this year were Senator Thruston Morton of Kentucky, Senator Strom Thurmond of South Carolina, and Tom Clark, Associate Justice of the Supreme Court.

to debate in model u. n. assembly

DELEGATES from twenty-eight colleges and universities convened in Bloomington for the annual Little United Nations Assembly. To better convey the purposes of L.U.N.A., a special week of lectures and panel discussions by faculty members preceded the assembly. Students serving ninety-five delegations met to advance the purposes of L.U.N.A.—to further understanding of world problems through participation. Frequent humorous incidents, like the reading of a telegram from the A.M.A. which labeled birth control as an "internal problem," were proof that world affairs could be interesting as well as informative.

UNPRECEDENTED NUMBERS of applicants showed the growing interest in Quiz Bowl competition this year, and many of the teams had to be eliminated by a qualifying exam. Moderator Owen Thomas delivered toss-up questions in rapid-fire style, as town, independent, and Greek teams battled it out in the progressive elimination rounds. Technical improvements this year included short circuit buzzers and an electric clock which kept both time and score automatically. A breakdown in the system, however, forced postponement of the final round and caused some anxious moments for the final winners, the Delta Chi team.

TWO NIGHTS OF I. U. SING's thirty-third vocal competition found Greek and independent housing units rounding up last-minute props, checking makeup, and dashing on and off stage in three minutes flat. The '65 theme, "Singcopation," typified the clockwork precision of backstage activity. Outside, in below-freezing weather, groups waited their turns to perform and tried to preserve their voices for the culmination of weeks of practice. In front of the auditorium curtain, mistress and master of ceremonies Jeanie Carroll and Jack Sheehan kept up their patter of jokes and impromptu songs between acts. Patriotic red, white, and blue, computer buttons, and even tulips paraded across the stage as part of the creative scenic effects.

A SEEMINGLY ENDLESS CORRIDOR MEETING and haphazard gathering-together of belongings marked the beginning of the end for Trees Center this fall semester. Most residents were informed of the move only a few weeks before the finals and were required to move during semester break, while some had not quite a week's notice. Nevertheless, skilled diplomacy on the administration's part helped make the exodus successful. Students were allowed to choose the housing they preferred for the spring semester, many floors moving as an entire unit. Although the new dorms will far surpass Trees in efficiency and comfort, Trees residents speak nostalgically of their former home, recalling its cozy intimacy.

WHETHER FALLING OUT OF BED for a 7:30, hanging onto wind-whipped umbrellas, or whizzing down sidewalks on skateboards, students manage to keep pace with I. U. life. Laundry piles up, coffee abounds, dates are broken as midterms and finals approach. When not studying or crowding into library buses, students cut loose on tennis courts, dance floors, and athletic fields. Weekends bring lively parties in Greek houses and dorms, and provide a few quiet moments for worship in Beck chapel. The activity-minded bury themselves in political battles, float construction, demonstrations, or committee leg-work. To round out these hectic days, plentiful concerts, plays, and convocations offer the student unparalleled cultural and educational opportunities.

dorm-dwellers enjoy lively campus home

THE CONSTANT BORESS, the night-long study session, the endless floor meeting—dorm life encompasses all this. Dorm-dwellers join enthusiastically in campus activities, hold exchange dinners, play in intramural sports. Hootenannies at hours, every phone on the hall ringing at once, acquaintances who become special friends, are unforgettable facets of a way of life.

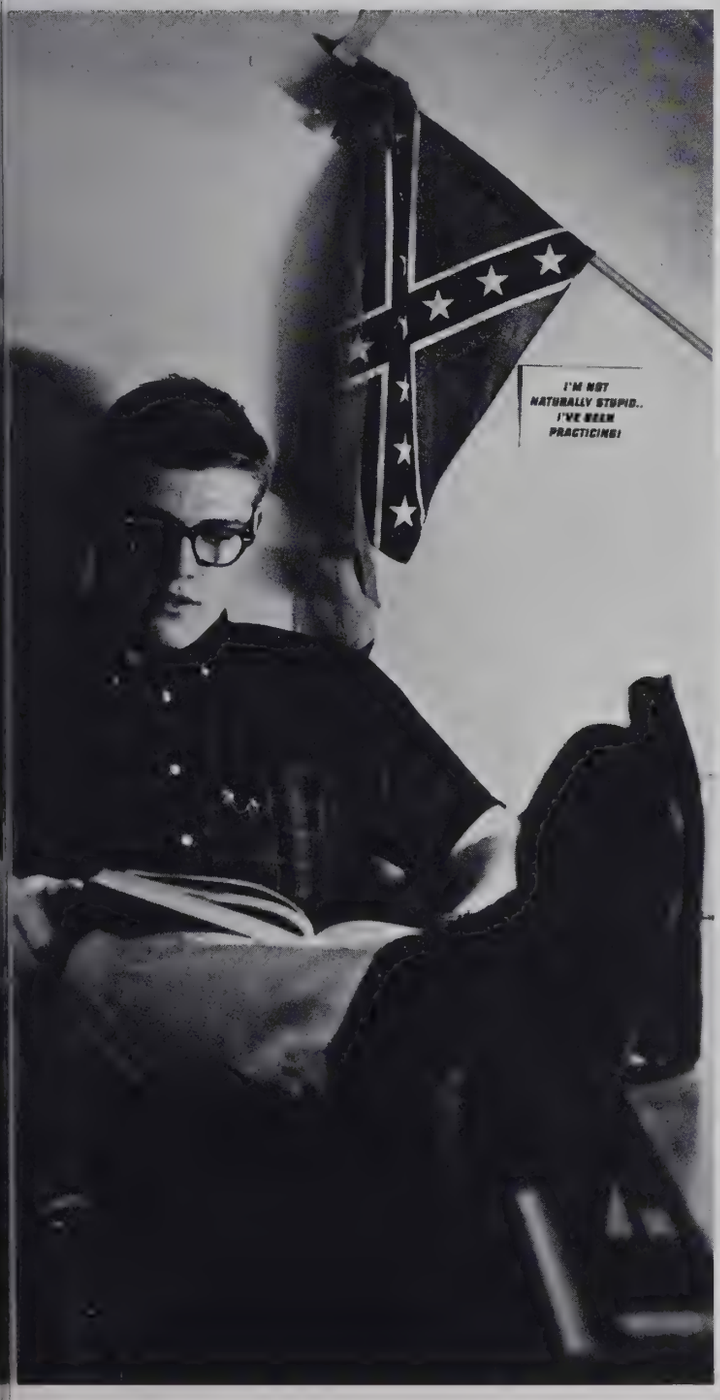

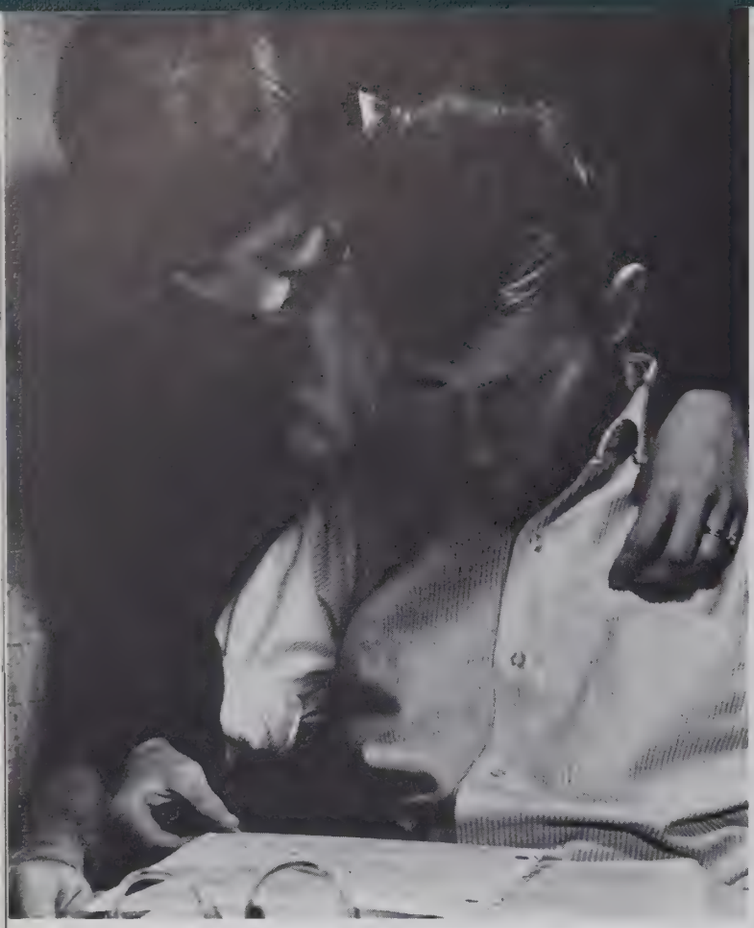

CAMARADERIE, activity, and unity characterize fraternity and sorority life at I. U. In the chapter houses, the Greeks enjoy the advantages of living conditions much like those of home. Combining arduous hours of sign-painting and float-building with serious efforts to maintain scholarship, and an occasional bridge game with the brothers or sisters, the Greeks find "family" living on a colossal scale exciting and rewarding.

sharing dual roles rewarding

SCATTERED ON OR NEAR campus in apartments, trailers, or private homes, married students must settle down to the task of getting through school, keeping house, and often, raising a family, at the same time. Combining grocery shopping with writing theses, or babysitting with student teaching, wives often seek degrees alongside their husbands or help balance the budget by working. On the outskirts of campus, or even in the Commons, children playing are a familiar sight. Married life is doubly hard with its dual roles, but the students find that the rewards of sharing a life together, outweigh its drawbacks.

MOTION IS THE SYMBOL and the substance of campus life. Ballentine's early-morning bustle to the fleeting moon-shadows of evening, our days are an endless blur of activity. We study, rest, play, talk. . . . We are participants in the campus world, preparing for our turn to enter the larger world outside. Energy, vibrant enthusiasm are ours, as never before or again, in the sunlit days of youth.

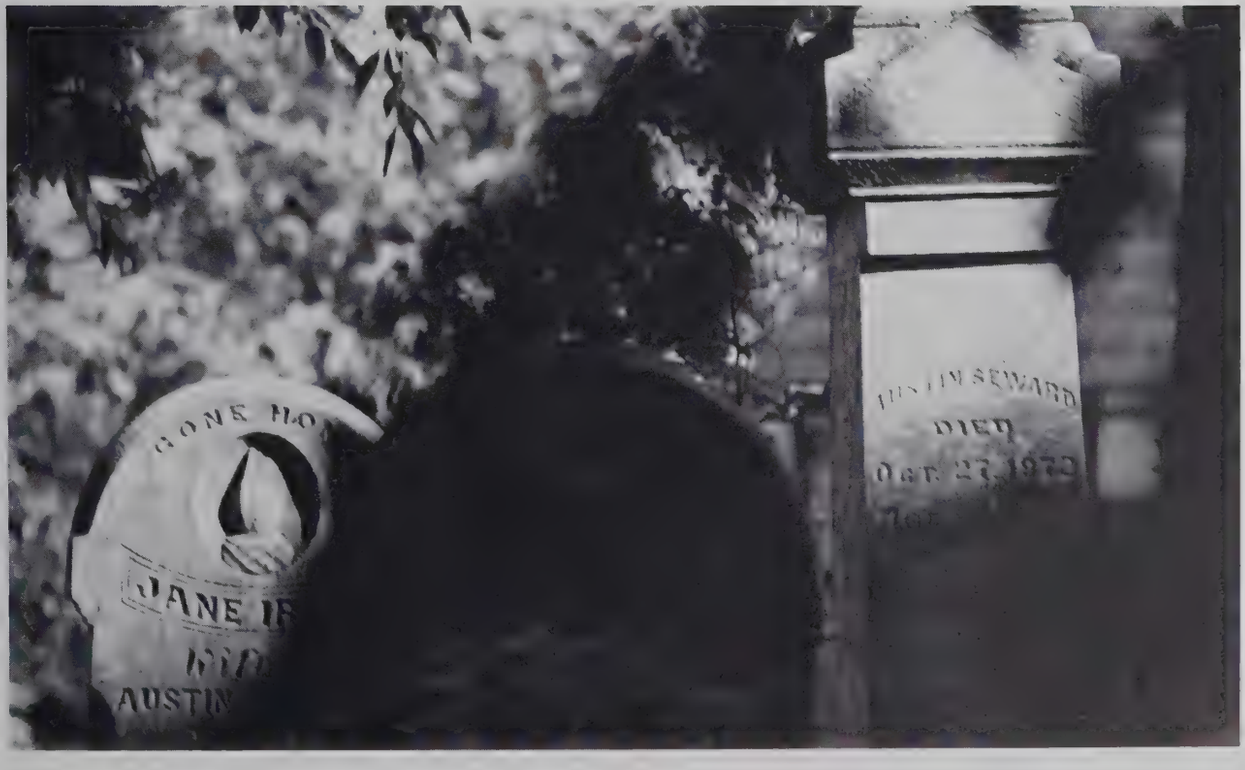

IN THE SHIFTING campus scenes, the rare still moments of beauty, we glimpse reality for a fleeting fraction of time. Here, caught forever by the photographer's lens, lies the paradox of nature: the serenity of a teeming glade, the restlessness of immutable stone. These are hints of eternity . . . ours to cherish for as long as tender memories shall last.

ELVIS J. STAHR, Indiana University's President, fills an inevitable variety of roles. Engrossed in national, regional, and state, as well as University responsibilities, he still finds time to share with Mrs. Stahr a famly life made lively by Stephanie, age 12, Stuart, age 7, and Bradford, age 6. In his presidential role, President Stahr concerns himself with the manifold activities of the faculty, staff, student body, and alumni. As a strong and influential voice in higher education, he presides over the Indiana Conference and the Midwestern Universities Research Association, is a trustee of the Committee for Economic Development, and participates in a score or more important deliberative bodies such as the National Committee on Accrediting, the Council of Ten, and the Executive Committees of the State Universities Association and of the National Association of State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges.

THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES, eight in number, find that the manifold duties involved in guiding the destiny of the University increase in number with the growth of the institution. Five members of the Board of Trustees are appointed by the Governor of the state, upon recommendation of the State Board of Education, and three members are elected by the alumni of Indiana University.

INDIANA UNIVERSITY is administered by the President with the assistance of four Vice-Presidents. Vice-President John W. Ashton has served as Dean for Graduate Development since 1959 and will be succeeded in 1965 by Dr. Lynne Merritt, whose title will be Vice-President for Research and Dean of Advanced Studies. Graduate students make up 25 per cent of the student population, and this is the fastest growing area of the University. New graduate programs are under constant development, recent areas including American Studies and Chemical Physics. Vice-President Samuel E. Braden is the University's first Dean for Undergraduate Development. His responsibility is to improve the educational opportunity open to undergraduates and to encourage them to improve their performance. Joseph A. Franklin, Vice-President and Treasurer, is responsible for University finances as well as directing supervision and planning of all University building. His foresight in planning is seen in the outstanding facilities available for student housing, classrooms, and research. Dean Ray L. Heffner, Vice-President and Dean of the Faculties, approves faculty appointments and promotions and is responsible for co-ordination of academic activities. These four Vice-Presidents work together in developing and improving the University's administrative system.

KNOWN TO MOST STUDENTS for his traditional Santa Claus role and attendance at many student functions, Dr. Herman B Wells, as president of Indiana University Foundation and Chancellor of the University, continues the interest in students he manefested during his twenty-five years as President of the University. One tangible evidence of this was the publication by the Foundation, at his direction, for distribution to all students of the booklet, "The Woodland Campus of Indiana University." Asked the University's chief goal he summarized: "Pursuit of excellence for the benefit of the student, of the state, and of new knowledge."

THE SUMMER SCHOOL PROGRAM, under the direction of Dr. Robert W. Richey, is the largest in the United States. Divided into three sessions, an Intersession lasting two and one half weeks, a regular session of eight and one half weeks, and post-session for two and one half weeks, the summer program allows the student to earn a maximum of fifteen credit hours. As well as planning and coordinating the courses, Dr. Richey sets up conferences, workshops, clinics, and institutes in the University.

The purpose of the News Bureau, says Director Earl Hoff, is "To inform and educate the people of the state concerning activities at Indiana University." With the exception of the Athletic Department, the Bureau covers the news from all departments and acts as a publicity agent for productions by the School of Music and the Speech and Theater Department of I. U.

halls of residence

INDIANA UNIVERSITY ended an era in 1964 with the final removal of students from the post-war housing of Trees Center, according to George R. Olsen, Director of the Halls of Residence. With final construction of Wendell L. Wilkie Quadrangle and the Third Street Housing project, I. U. continued to stay ahead of enrollment increase. The future holds even more exciting prospects for the Halls of Residence, as the halls continue to expand for an even greater student body.

THE TASK OF THE JUNIOR DIVISION is to aid the freshmen in determining his academic goals and counseling him in order that he may reach these goals. Dean Pressly S. In the future they will also be paying fees and buying books at this time. The Junior Division also sponsors programs oriented toward the high school student.

WILLIAM G. SPANNUTH
Director of Division of Safety

THE SAFETY DIVISION of Indiana University, which has been under the leadership of Captain William G. Spannuth since 1955, has around the clock responsibility for police protection and other services to the I. U. campus. Twenty-eight officers and thirteen patrolmen are constantly patrolling the campus or are on call for the many emergency situations that may arise. Enforcing parking violations, directing traffic, and general policing are some of the duties of the Division.

THE HEALTH CENTER employs two psychiatrists and eight doctors under the direction of Dr. John Miller, M.D. Every student's past medical history is reviewed to be sure that the student can participate in physical education, ROTC, and various activities. The Health Center provides an out-patient clinic, an in-patient clinic, an X-ray service, and also keeps emergency hours. The new Health Center, to be open in September, 1965, will consist of the same provisions on an expanded basis.

ANY REGULARLY ENROLLED student or student wife may avail himself of the services of the Student Employment Service which is now located in the New Administrative Services Building. This service, guided by George B. DeKalb, Co-ordinator of Student Employment, provides 4000 jobs, ninety percent of which are located directly on the I. U. campus. The Halls of Residence and the various libraries provide the greatest number of job opportunities for those students who are looking for work.

outstanding teaching awards

INDIANA UNIVERSITY annually rewards distinguished teaching by presenting cash prizes to three faculty members and three graduate teaching associates. President Stahr remarked at Founders' Day that "Of all the rewards that can come to a teacher, perhaps the most significant is the one for dedicated and inspiring teaching." Winners and their citations are: Harold F. Lusk, professor of business law, Frederic Bachman Lieber Award; Donald D. Jensen, assistant professor of psychology, Indiana University Foundation Faculty Award; David R. Derge, associate professor of government, Ulysses G. Weatherly Award. Teaching associates were William C. Perkins, School of Business; Dorothy G. Rosenberger, Department of German; and Janice M. Weaver, School of Education.

INDIANA'S MOST FAMOUS SCIENTIST, the geneticist, Hermann Joseph Muller, retired from the Indiana University faculty. Muller won the Nobel Prize in medicine, in 1946, for proving, nineteen years previously, that radiation, such as x-rays or those from atomic reactions, can produce mutations. Besides receiving the Nobel Prize, he was one of the two first recipients, in 1955, of the highest honor in genetics, the Kimber Award, presented by the National Academy of Sciences. In 1961 he became the first person to be voted an honorary life membership in the American Institute of Biological Sciences. Hermann Muller won't let his retirement from Indiana University interrupt his life-long efforts to improve the lot of the human race; he now works in Duarte, California.

INDIANA UNIVERSITY'S regional campuses are dedicated to constantly strengthening the intellectual and cultural life of its students and the larger community which it serves. As the directors of the various campuses look to the future, they hope to see complete campuses with a complete educational program in order to relieve the burden of coming to the main campus to finish work. The new Fort Wayne Center, in the background, is a step in this direction. Attending the dedication were: Byron F. Laird, Southeast; Ralph E. Broyles, Fort Wayne; John E. Buhner, Northwest; Virgil Hunt, Indianapolis; Lester M. Wolfson, South Bend-Mishawaka; Victor Bogle, Kokomo Regional Campus.

THE EASTERN INDIANA CENTER, located at Richmond, Indiana, is unique because of its co-operation between a private liberal arts college and a state university. Dr. E. Orville Johnson, director, and Stephen H. Wales, assistant director, have planned a "resident" program for the summer of 1965 and all future summer sessions where the dormitories of Earlham College will be used. A new program is in operation which enables a student to complete more than two years of most degree requirements.

THE INDIANA - PURDUE University Regional campus at Fort Wayne, occupied in late August, was dedicated on November 8, 1964. Dr. Ralph Broyles, director, states that this marks the first time that two giant state universities have combined their operations under one roof. Classrooms, laboratories, student activities, library, lounge and cafeteria are jointly shared. The administration, of course, is separate. The joint enrollments of the campus have created a favorable climate for extra-curricular activities as well as faculty increase.

THE INDIANA UNIVERSITY KOKOMO CENTER increased its enrollment to 923, this year. In addition to adding several new courses this year, a new building, including a 900-seat auditorium, is to be completed during the summer of 1965. Classes are scheduled to begin in the new building in the fall of 1965. It contains facilities for chemistry, physics, psychology, speech and theater. According to Victor M. Bogle, director, the center has expanded, considerably, the non-credit or special program segment of the curriculum during the past year.

VIRGIL HUNT, Director and Assistant Dean of the Indianapolis Downtown Center, relates that this campus is the oldest of the regional campuses dating from 1916. Since it is the only regional campus without a new building, it is in the planning stages for a building. This is, however, the only regional campus with closed circuit television facilities, and as a result of this, it is the only regional campus able to offer the Master of Business Administration program of the School of Business.

LOCATED IN JEFFERSONVILLE, Indiana, the Indiana University Southeastern Campus is under the leadership of Byron F. Laird. Included in future plans is the securing of a post office building and remodeling it for class use. Also, a language laboratory was added in the Fall, 1964, and it is expected that the library will double in size with the addition of the new post office building. The Southeastern Campus pioneered in the host-guest arrangement with Purdue University and now offers the Purdue Freshman Engineering program and Mechanical Technology program.

northwestern

LOCATED IN GARY, INDIANA, Indiana University Northwest Campus, along with the South Bend Campus, is scheduled to offer junior level curricula in 1965-1966 and senior level in 1966-1967, leading to four-year programs in education and business. The continuing education, states J. C. Buhner, Director, and the advent of a new administrator for special programs for the next academic year is expected to result in considerable development both in variety of programs to be offered and numbers of enrollment.

INDIANA UNIVERSITY'S REGIONAL CAMPUS at Vincennes is a partnership between Indiana University and Vincennes University. Since Vincennes University is a junior college, Indiana University strives to supplement the courses and to serve the community. J. Howard Hill, Director, anticipates that there will be no immediate expansion of this regional campus or no consolidation with any other university in the near future.

DR. LESTER M. WOLFSON, who served in several capacities at the Northwest Campus from 1955-1964, was appointed Director of the South Bend Campus in July, 1964. A second building for the South Bend Campus will be ready for use sometime in the 1965-1966 school year, and it will provide space for the student increase in the years ahead. The Campus is dedicated to constantly strengthening the intellectual and cultural life of its students and is constantly exploring ways to develop excellence.

THE INDIANA UNIVERSITY MEDICAL CENTER is unique in that it is the location of the State Medical Center, having the only medical and dental school in the state. In addition, located there are the School of Nursing and the Division of Allied Health Sciences. The School of Medicine is one of the three largest in the entire United States, and the freshman class this past year was the largest ever enrolled in a United States Medical School. Also, bids have been let for the start of construction on an adult teaching hospital which is an absolute necessity. Expansion and modernization of the already available facilities are two primary aims for the future of the center, which is located in Indianapolis.

Ecstacy was an Indiana touchdown against Northwestern when the Cream and Crimson enjoyed a lead as Tom Nowatzke exploded for the TD.

highlighted the 1964 football campaign

INDIANA'S "HARD LUCK" HOOSIERS finished another up-and-down season, sandwiching two victories between losing streaks of three and four games.

The team however, was never really outplayed by any opponent. Although they were often behind, the "fightin' Hoosiers" never gave up, wiping out deficits in the last quarter in their two winning efforts. A spectacular last-quarter bid against Big Ten runner-up Ohio State fell short as three pass interceptions in the final period crushed Hoosier hopes for an upset.

The margin of defeat in five of the seven losses was by a touchdown (plus two-point conversion) or less, and two of those games were decided by a single point. In the majority of the losses, Indiana won the battle of the statistics, lending further credence to the fine team effort.

Junior End Bill Malinchak helped re-write the I. U. record book as he teamed with Rich Badar for some spectacular pass completions.

The Hoosier front wall performed magnificently all season on defense. Tom Meyers of Northwestern was stopped six inches short of the goal by a charge led by All-American Tom Nowatzke.

offense augments team's battling defense

Gang tackling was another Indiana trademark as a host of linemen stop Purdue's Gordon Teter in the Old Oaken Bucket battle with the Boilermakers.

THE OUTSTANDING performances by the Hoosiers did not go unnoticed by the various All Star team selectors.

Tom Nowatzke was recognized for his superb efforts by the American Football Coaches Association. This marked the second year that the I. U. fullback had received All-America mention.

Several other members of the "Fightin' Hoosiers" were placed on Big Ten teams. Guards Don Croftcheck and Mel Branch and end Malinchak made all-conference teams selected by the American football coaches.

Led by linemen like co-captain Branch and Croftcheck, tackles Kenny Hollister and Randy Beisler, and end Rudy Kuchenberg, the Hoosier front wall more than held its own throughout the season.

individuals provide top performances

USUALLY NO FOOTBALL GAME IS COMPLETE unless a dog dashes on the field. At I. U. no game is complete unless Theta Chi's pugnacious bulldog, OX, makes the scene to give the Hoosiers never daunted support.

Co-Captain Rich Badar calls signals while an intense line prepares to open the way for a shifty back or allow the quarterback vital time to pass.

DESPITE THE DISAPPOINTING team standing, several individuals forged their names into the record book. Tom Nowatzke, Richie Badar, and Bill Malinchak were the authors of the greatest rewriting of Hoosier standards in many sports-filled years.

Nowatzke alone set six new marks in his final season. Among these records were his ten TD's and 73 points in a season. The addition of this season's points boosted Tom to a career scoring record. The big fullback's 50-yard field goal against the Ohio State Buckeyes created a new Big Ten mark as well as an I. U. team standard.

The passing combination of Rich Badar and Bill Malinchak was not far behind Nowatzke's recordsetting pace. Badar wound up as the nation's no. six passer, with three season records in the process. The I. U. co-captain set marks for completions, attempts, and yardage. Bill Malinchak snared 46 Badar passes for 634 yards, also posting new season and career entries in the record book.

THE SOCCER TEAM climaxed its finest season ever with a bid to the 1964 NCAA Tournament. Coach Jerry Yeargley's squad captured the Eastern Division of the Midwest Soccer Conference but bowed to the powerful St. Louis Billikens in a playoff meeting for the championship.

Led by high scoring Paul Biterabeho and Pete Tagalakis, the booters swept past eight opponents while tying Michigan State. The tie with the Spartans marred an otherwise flawless record for the two rivals.

Biterabeho, an All-America honorable mention last year, was nominated for honors again. Jack Georges was outstanding in the nets as the I. U. team excelled on defense. Chris Hornbostle, Umit Kesim, and Jack Jensen also made important contributions to the team efforts.

Placed fifth in Big Ten Meet.
Placed second in Big State Meet.

ALTHOUGH THE 1964 CROSS-COUNTRY team dropped a notch from its standing at the 1963 Big Ten Meet, the squad was generally much improved over the previous year. The season finale was a disappointment for Coach Jim Lavery; but, with four out of the top five men returning next year, the future is highly encouraging for the coach and fans.

The identical group of five men made up the scoring nucleus in every meet. Captain Terry Shy led the I. U. team in each meet but one and bested the entire field in the competition during three meets.

Sophomore Virgil Bankson equalled Shy's season best of 20:09 for the four mile course, in leading Indiana against Notre Dame. Shy recorded an identical time in finishing fifth at the Big State Meet.

Rounding out the five man scoring unit were junior Allan Marshall and sophomores Mike Hensgen and John Humphrey. Hensgen was especially outstanding, breaking the 21 minute mark on several different occasions during the season.

THE 1964 VERSION of the tennis team was one of the most successful in Indiana's history. The season's climax came when the squad captured the Big Ten championship, reversing a dual-meet loss to Northwestern. The defeat was one of two which Indiana had suffered during the season.

At the Big Ten tournament, the Hoosiers placed men in all but one of the nine finals. Three singles players and two doubles teams captured championships.

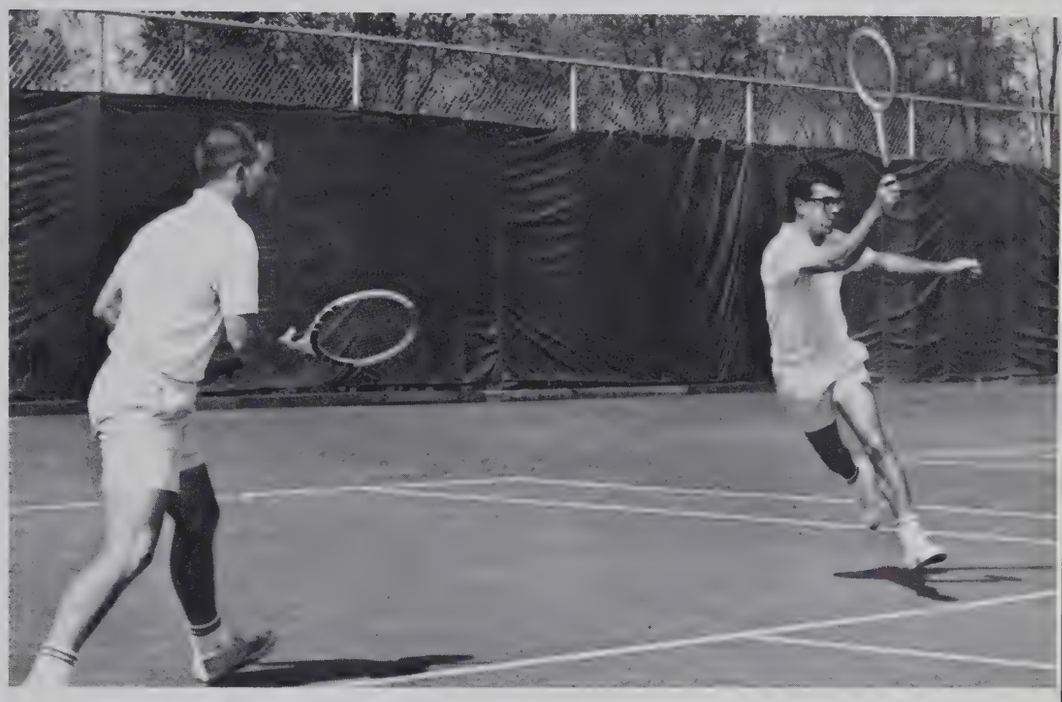

Alan Graham, Chill Fichter, and Jim Binkley were the first place winners, while Dave Power and Charlie Kane took seconds. The combinations of Kane-Graham and Fichter-Binkley also emerged at the head of their divisions. The Power-McNerney team finished in second place.

Phi Beta Kappa Jim Binkley preserved his unblemished mark with his victories in the meet. He was the only unbeaten.

BOB SINGLETON, A SENIOR from New Albany, captained the I. U. team during 1964 during his first year as starting first baseman. He provided the needed spark on defense although his batting average was not among the top marks.

THE 1964 BASEBALL TEAM finished one of its better seasons with a 23-12 record. The Hoosiers had some hard luck after the fine start during the eight-game spring tour through Texas against the five different teams.

The squad finished the Conference schedule with a 7-8 mark and played its best game against Ohio State with a 9-1 victory. The seventh-place finish in the Big Ten was a great improvement over tenth in 1963. Bob Singleton led the team as captain.

JUNIOR RON KELLER posted a 6-3 season mark for the Hoosiers; one victory was a six-hitter.

pitchers and hitters sparkle in most games

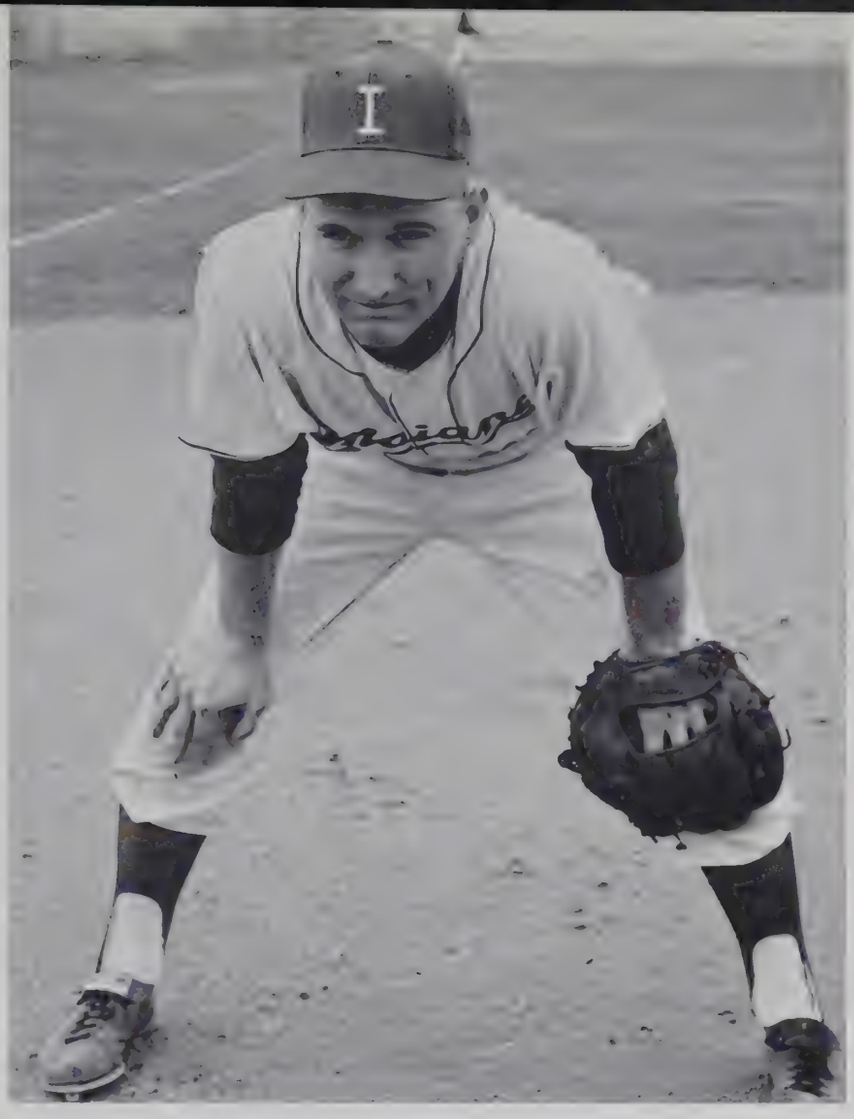

ALTHOUGH THE TEAM did not sparkle with an individual star, good balance kept the team alive and provided moments of good baseball action in all the games.

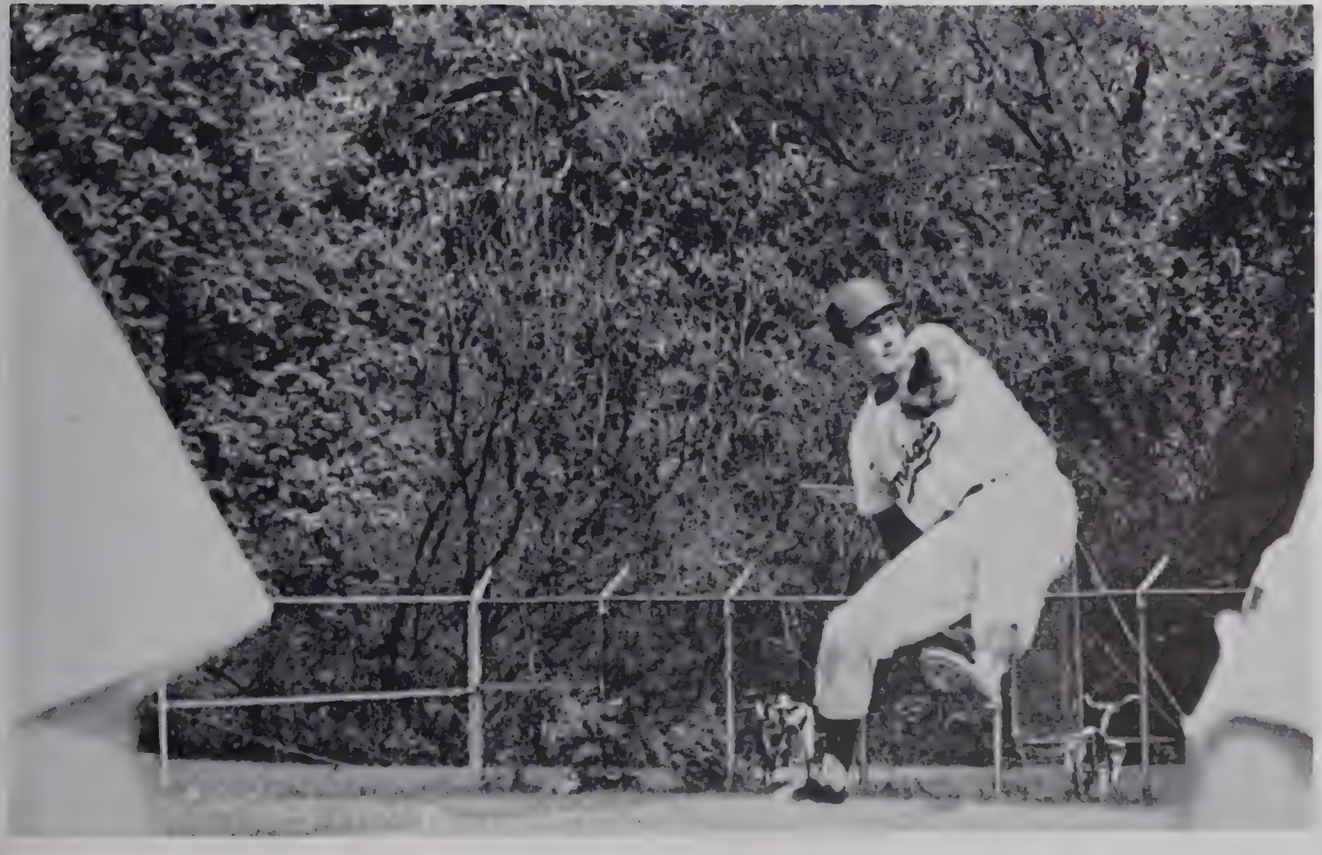

Ed Palko, a junior, led the team in hitting with a .358 average. His production of RBI's and total bases was also high for the Hoosiers. Sophomore Don Dilly was the Balfour Award winner as the top baseball player for I. U. He was the versatile member, playing the outfield and pitching.

Richie Scott was the best Indiana moundsman with a 6-2 season record, including a three- and a four-hit contest. Jerry Dill had the best earned run average at 1.10 while Fred Nori paced the team in stolen bases with ten.

FOLLOWING AN UP AND DOWN SEASON in 1963, the I. U. golf team bounced back to a second place finish in the Conference, losing one match to Purdue for a 10-1 mark. Jim Jewell paced the team in average, and Byron Comstock took medalist in the Big Ten.

Jewell also added to his prestige as a sophomore by advancing to the semi-finals in the NCAA meet. His showing and that of teammates Paul Williams, Byron, and Terry Comstock, Tommy Thomas, Dallas Peters, and Jim Topolgus gave the Hoosiers ninth place in the meet. Topolgus was captain.

rugby team completed average campaign

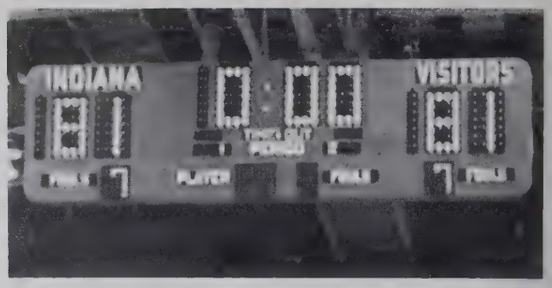

INDIANA'S RUGBY squad, depleted by graduation, worked its way through an average season in the fall after a more than successful spring campaign in 1964. Scoring was a problem at the start of the year, but Coach John Healy worked the team into a well-moulded unit for the last half of the season.

Mike King led the team in scoring with 15 points while Ben Life was countering with 11 to help the Hoosiers. Others who contributed to a team effort were Healy, Joe Heat, and Bob Springer. The year's high point was a 15-0 victory over the North Shore Rugby Club.

Hard competition is one of the distinguishing marks of rugby. The scramble here was between Hoosier players and Notre Dame.

and one of the nation's top teams

RIDING ON the success of seven dedicated seniors, the Hoosier basketball team compiled an astounding 19-5 record for Coach Branch McCracken. After an undefeated pre-conference schedule, which included winning the Memphis State Invitational tournament, the Hoosiers went into Big Ten play as a contender for the championship. Even though they had a fine season record and were highly rated in the national ratings, the Hoosiers suffered several disappointing days during Big Ten play. They lost by a slim six and five points to Iowa and Illinois before losing a double overtime game to top-rated Michigan. With five big ten defeats, the Hoosiers finished in fifth place in conference play.

The 1964-65 season ended the era of the fabulous VanArsdale twins, Tom and Dick. The three year lettermen were almost identical on the basketball court; in their career at I. U., Tom scored 1,252 points and collected 723 rebounds while brother Dick scored 1,240 points and grabbed 719 rb's for the Hurryin' Hoosiers.

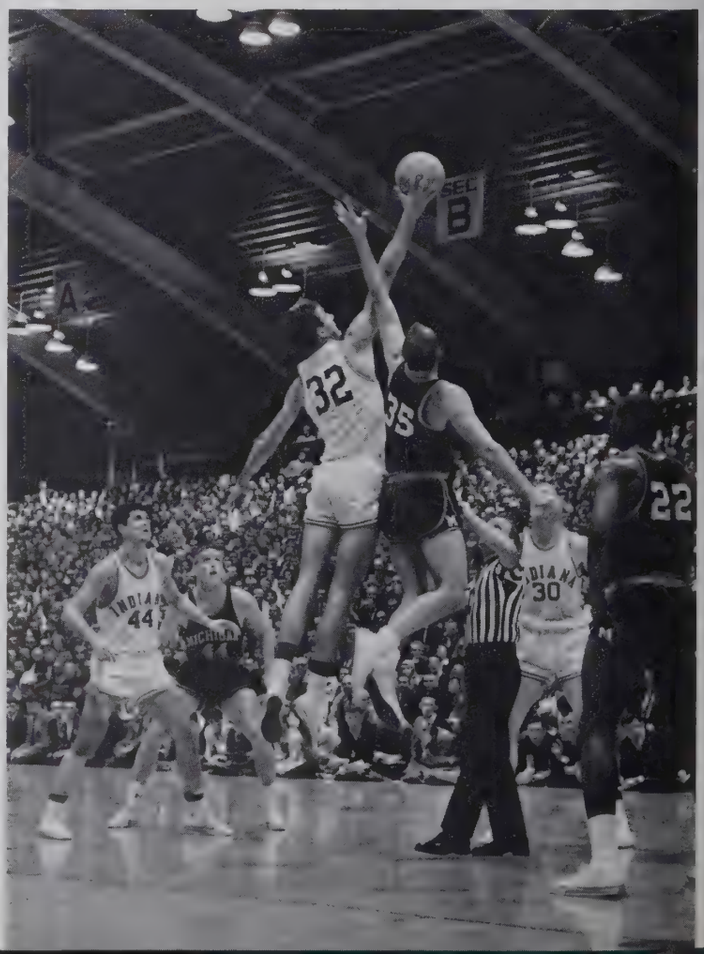

Basketball is not an easy game which Dick VanArsdale found as he attempted a layup against a Michigan defender. The game proved to be the battle for life in the Big Ten during 1965.

There's not much anyone can do when one of the VanArsdales is set to drive in for a basket. Here it's Dick who scores as five Iowa Hawkeyes look on helplessly.

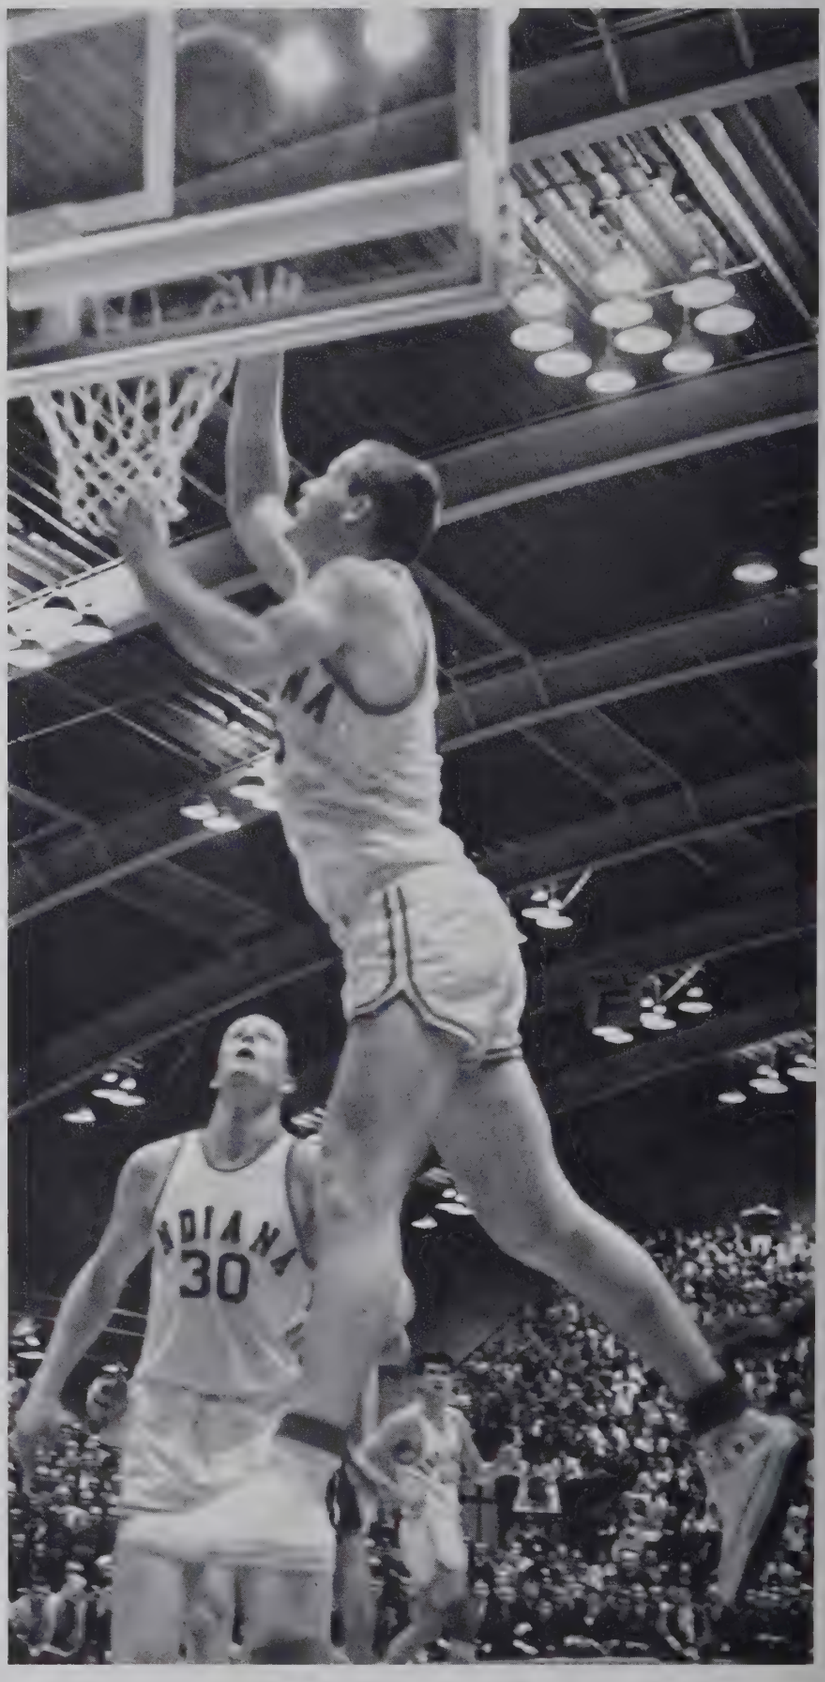

Al Hardin lets loose with one of his patented long-range jump shots, typically leaving the opposition, in this case Michigan State, standing flatfooted. Hardin often came in off the bench with such shots.

mcglocklin and vans provide

Jon McGlocklin, the Moose, was one of the most consistent players to wear the Cream and Crimson and ended as third best scorer of the year.

Most of Indiana's basketball fans saw double for the last four years as the Vans progressed from freshmen to senior all-Americans. The twins ended with statistics as identical as their looks, alternating in different areas.

excitement

THE HOOSIERS, as can be expected, set several records during the season. The team surpassed its own Big Ten free throw record set in 1962. Senior Jon McGlocklin, captain of the 1964-65 Hurryin' Hoosiers, established a new I. U. and conference record for free throw shooting. The team also ran rampant and entered a new scoring mark on the recordbook with a total of 2,200 points. On the way to a new scoring standard, the team rewrote the field goal percentage.

Tom VanArsdale, one of the Hoosiers' all America twins, goes high for a layup against Michigan's all-American Cazzie Russell in a game which the Wolves won.

Even though the game may be "won", Big Ten coaches and ballplayers keep active watch on proceedings from the bench and even comment.

Steve Redenbaugh was one of the clutch players for the Hoosiers, both on offense and defense. Here he bombs away with a patented jumper.

sharp shooting offense and tenacious press

The start of the 1964-65 season saw the I. U. team come out with a new zone press defense.

Senior Larry Cooper provided a needed boost to augment the performance of the two Vans and guards. He switched with Ron Peyser at center.

made i. u. big ten contender

Gary Grieger was the Hoosier "seventh man" and was good enough to make any team in the conference. He will be one of the returning players for next season.

WITH AN energetic squad of six girls, the varsity cheerleaders followed the Hoosiers through victory and defeat. Besides leading cheers at all the home football and basketball games, the girls were the hostesses to guests at the University, and served as liaisons between alumni associations and students, and attended banquets as representatives of the student body. They did not cheer only at football and basketball games, but attended gymnastics and track events as well. The highlight of the year's events for the three seniors on the squad—Vicki Foster (Captain), Cindy Whitfield, Jeannie Carroll—was the trip to the Orange Bowl where the Fightin' Hoosiers beat a rugged Miami (Fla.) football team.

THE 1965 SEASON was both exciting and a frantic one for Athletic Director James W. (Bill) Orwig and his administrative staff.

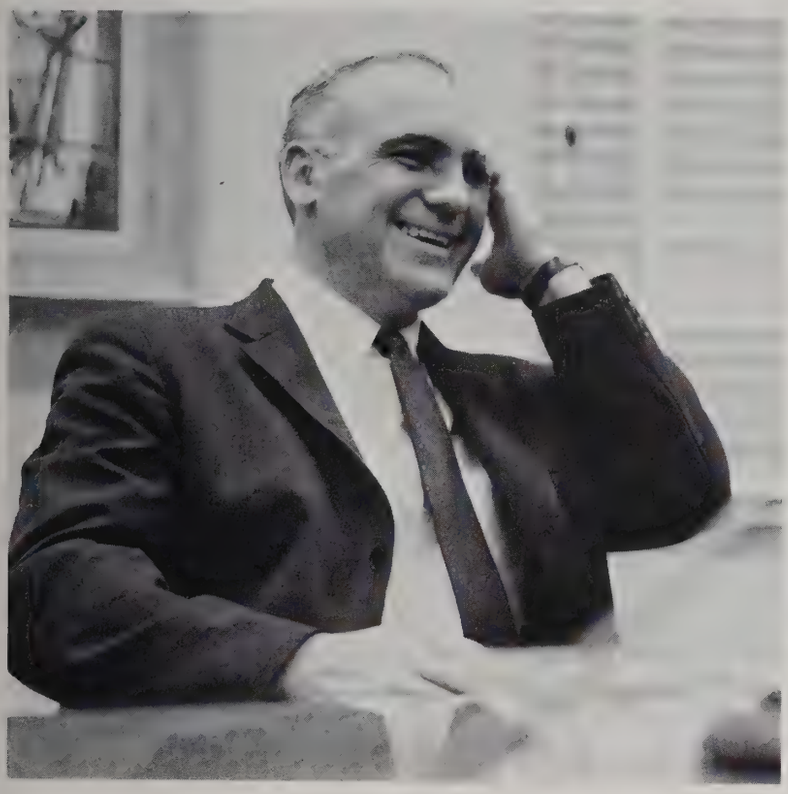

In addition to the usual problems encountered in running a Big Ten athletic program, this year saw another Olympiad and the retirement of two I.U. coaches. Having a great number of Olympians and an Olympic coach, Dr. James E. Counsilman, created extra responsibilities and organizational problems for the entire athletic administration.

Coming right on the heels of the Olympic activity was the retirement of football coach Phil Dickens in December and of basketball mentor Branch McCracken in March. The difficulty in choosing successors John Pont and Lou Watson, in football and basketball respectively, had Director Orwig and his assistant Bob Dro working overtime.

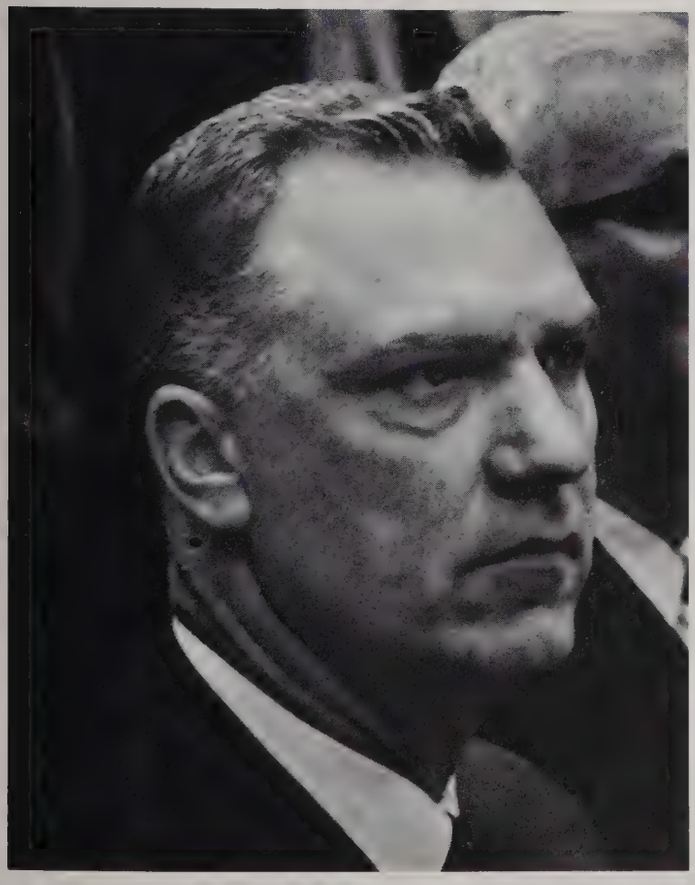

Another highlight of the year was the record number of season athletic book sales under Business Manager Frank Anderson. In addition, I.U.'s new outdoor swimming pool complex and tennis courts were completed in 1965, under the able supervision of Paul J. Harrell.

Publicity Director Tom Miller was behind the coverage of the coaching changes and the Hoosiers' part in the Olympic Games. Chris Dal Sasso and Ted Smith were responsible for the administration of the Big Ten eligibility rules and helped to maintain the high level of academic achievement among the members of the various Indiana athletic teams.

with building, coach hunting, and olympics

New head football coach, John Pont, can still manage a smile despite injuries suffered in an automobile accident. Coach Pont, a graduate of Miami University of Ohio, where he starred at halfback and later as a coach, came to I.U. from Yale.

Lou Watson's face already expresses the intense concentration of a head coach, although here he is still assistant to Branch McCracken. Watson, a former I.U. captain and M.V.P., was picked to succeed McCracken following the latter's retirement after 25 years as coach of the Hurryin' Hoosiers.

WITH A NUCLEUS of eight returning lettermen, the Hoosier wrestlers had to battle all the way for their 8-4-2 season record. The team was hobbled with a rash of injuries to key men throughout the year and was unable to perform at its best. The Hoosiers, who placed third in last year's Big Ten meet, finished three notches lower in seventh. Senior Dick Isel, the defending 177-pound champ, failed to place because of an injury. Bob Campbell, Jim Black, and Bruce Curths did score in the meet.

Isel was the most outstanding wrestler for Indiana. He finished undefeated during the year at 8-0 and compiled a very impressive 24-1-1 mark in his three years of varsity competition. Another senior, heavyweight Dick Conaway, had a successful 12-3-2 year. Don Bennett, Curths, and Campbell posted 10 triumphs each.

Senior grappler Dick Conaway looks for an opening against another burly heavyweight opponent.

injuries to key personnel prove costly for indiana's wrestlers in 1965

Dale Timmons, a senior, seeks one of wrestling's goals—a pin—as he works to better his position in a late-season encounter.

Sophomore Bob Haley appears to have the advantage for the moment in the 165-pound match. The complexion of a meet can change quickly and sometimes did for the Hoosier wrestlers this season.

ncaa title still eludes hoosier swim team after many successes

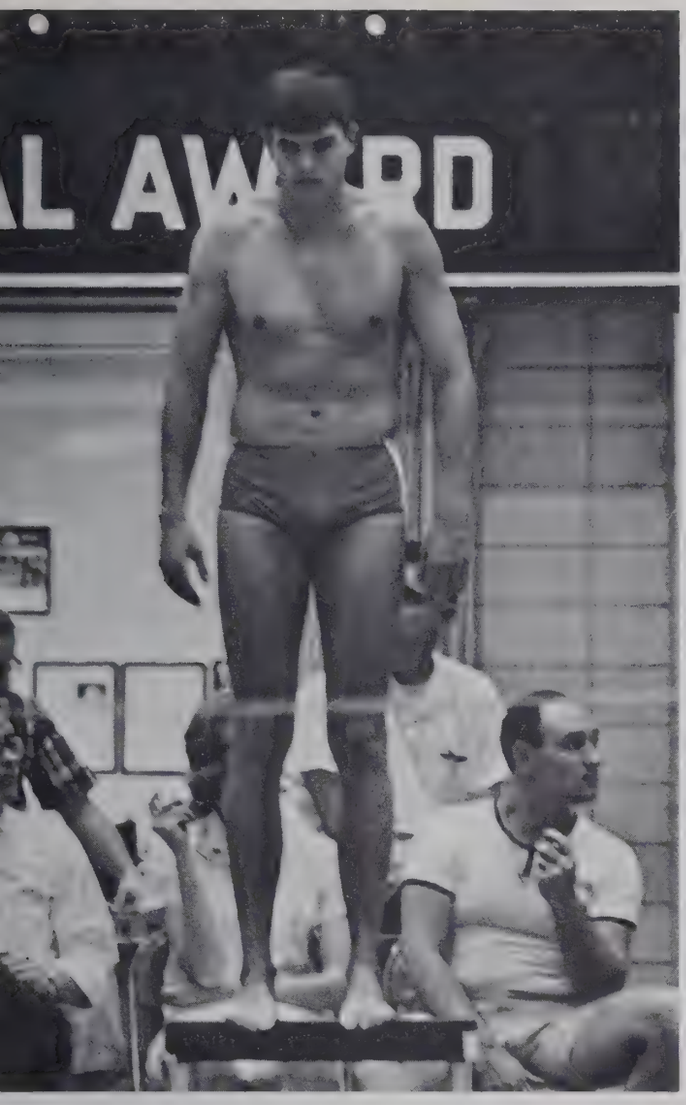

I. U.'S SWIMMING TEAM ended another successful season with a second place finish in the NCAA Swimming and Diving Championships.

The season also saw the triumphant return of the Hoosier coach Dr. James E. Counsilman from the Tokyo Olympics where three of the I. U. varsity swimmers helped the U.S. team claim a victory. Tom Trethewey, Ken Sitzberger and Fred Schmidt also went on to win national collegiate titles. Diving Coach Hiboe Billingsley also watched three of his pupils—Sitzberger, Rick Gilbert, and Rick Earley—place 1-2-3 in the three-meter diving event as the Hoosier team became the first modern entry to perform such a feat. Team efforts, however, marked all the season attempts.

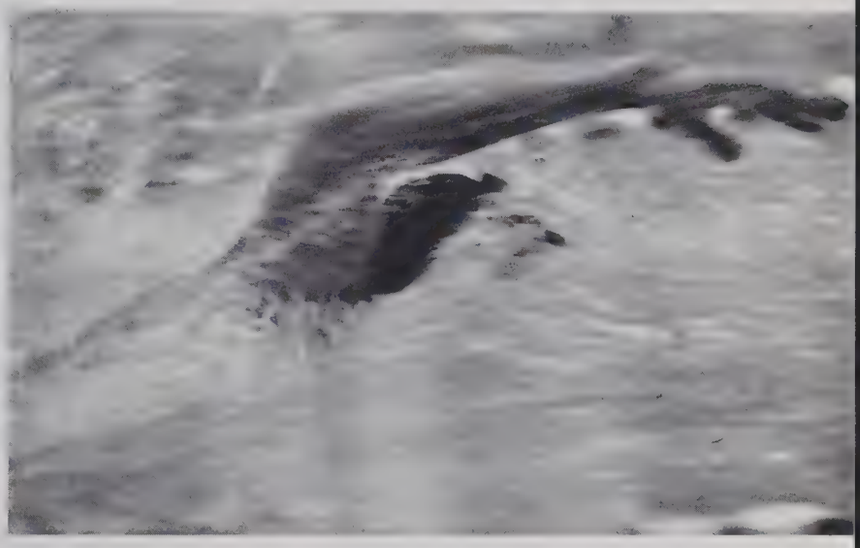

Seniors Pete Andersen, Gary Verhoeven, Terry Townsend, Chuck Ogilby, Schmidt, and diver Gilbert were regular scorers in all the big meets of the year. Others who did fine jobs were juniors Ralph Kendrick, Pete Hammer, Bob Williamson, Trethewey, Art Smith, Chuck Neel, Dick Morse, and Ken Frost. A group of sophomores led by Scott Cordin, John Collins, Chuck Richards, and Sitzberger also proved to be important in giving the Hoosier squad its best all-around performances in several years.

Bob Williamson takes off on the anchor leg of the medley relay against Minnesota. The I.U. relay lowered the American record twice and won the NCAA title.

Junior diver Rick Early is poised in concentration as he prepares to perform a back dive from the three-meter spring board.

THE STRENGTH of the Indiana team was in the accumulation of massive depth and consistency in improving times. The Hoosiers walked off with the Big Ten Championships for the fifth straight year even though they were definite underdogs. Records also continued to tumble as fast as the team could get meets. One mark which may never be equaled by another team fell when Michigan snapped the Indiana 47-meet consecutive winning streak early in the year.

The team ended the year's campaign with 10 new varsity records on the books and several American standards credited to the school's individuals. The year also marked the biggest graduation loss of Indiana swimming under coaching of Doc Counsilman.

Four of the nine men took home an equal number of gold medals, and two female Olympians, Kathy Ellis and Terri Stickles, added two more first place awards. Bob Windle, Fred Schmidt, Ken Sitzberger, and Kevin Berry were the four gold medalists who are enrolled at I.U.

inexperience proves costly for i.u. fencers

UNDER NEW coach John Plinke, the I.U. foilmen entered their third year of varsity competition this season. The team showed continued improvement, but more experienced teams from other schools proved to be too tough. At the Big Ten championships, two fencers were nudged from the finals in play-offs as the team finished in sixth spot for the second straight year.

Eric Peterson in epee and Dave Gage in foil performed extremely well this year. Considering that it takes several years of experience to develop a strong fencing team, the I.U. squad can look forward to next season's meets with anticipation for improved success.

Movability and dexterity are two assets which are needed to make a good fencer. One member of the I.U. team parries to offset the thrust of an opponent during an intersquad practice session.

marksmanship earns big ten rifle crown

THE HOOSIER rifle team revenged two season losses to Purdue and fired its way to the Big Ten Championship. Jim Ohnesorge and Dave Gutzwiller scored perfect rounds in the title match to give the team a six-point triumph.

Seniors Jim Bailey, Steve Cork, and Bill Herring provided consistent firing for the team. Bailey served as the team captain during the year. Other strength came from juniors Stan Kent and Dave Herrick who scored top honors during at least one outing during the year.

Victories in 1965 came over Rose Poly, Wisconsin, Notre Dame, Michigan State, and Ohio State in the conference meet. The defeats by Purdue were by 20 and 3 points respectively.

gymnasts improve over previous big ten

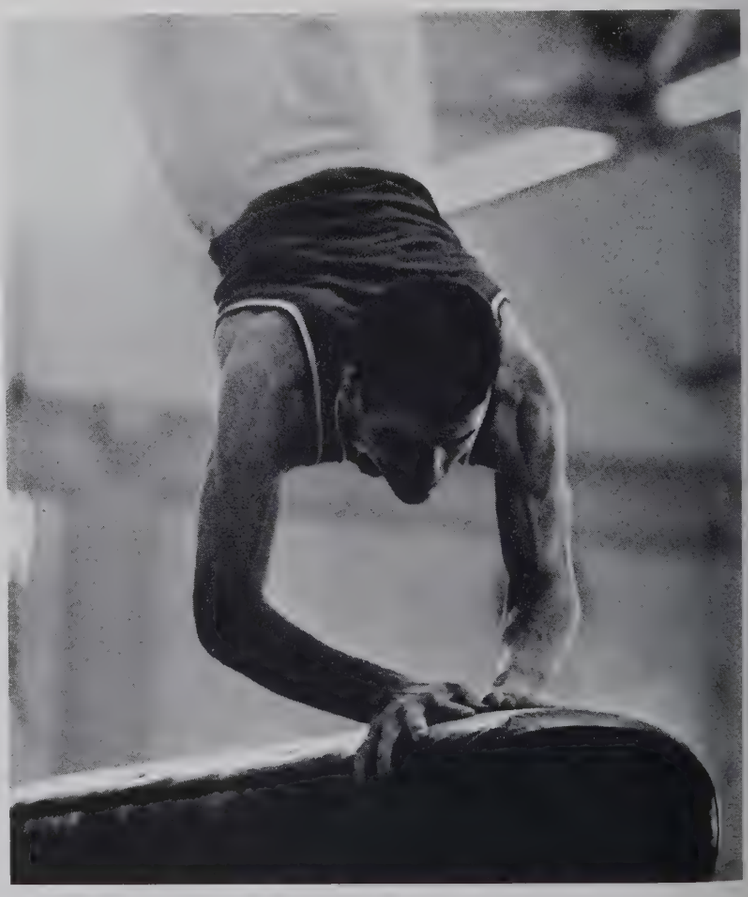

Joel Sutlin, I.U.'s top gymnast in 1965, exhibits his skill on the steel rings as he executes the Olympic cross during the meet with Minnesota.

PACED BY versatile sophomore Joel Sutlin and senior Frank Knuckles, the gymnastics team made much improvement over the previous season. Sutlin, competing in the all-around event, led Coach Otto Ryser's charges in every meet except one.

The gymnasts compiled a 3-3 record in Big Ten competition and finished with an overall 6-4-1 mark. Included in the victory column were reversals of losses to Minnesota and Ohio State.

Under the new system of determining the conference champion through the final dual meet standing, the team finished two notches over last year to take fifth place. One other change this year was the substitution of the long horse for the tumbling event.

After Knuckles and Sutlin, the most consistent performers were Clark Wells, Marty Rosen, Mike Ross, and Rick Early. Senior Jim Everroad also performed well on the trampoline. The team's future is bright since all will return except Knuckles and Jim Everroad.

The long horse event was added to the gymnastics competition this year and here Clark Wells is caught in the middle of one of the intricate maneuvers.

records tumble as trackmen improve

Trenton Jackson, Illinois Olympian, smashes a track record in edging I.U.'s outstanding junior Randy Weddle and teammate Mike Yavorski. Weddle's time was also one of the nation's best in the 1964 track season.

OUTSTANDING INDIVIDUAL EFFORTS highlighted the 1964 outdoor and 1965 indoor track seasons. Although overall team performance was inconsistent, Coach Jim Lavery's men shattered a number of records and upset several teams during the year.

In the outdoor competition, I.U. showed something old and something new. Senior Co-Captain Cornelius Miller highjumped 6'8¼" for new track and varsity standards and regained his Big Ten crown. Co-Captain Art Campbell set an Indiana Relays' record in the two mile run and Bill Craig established a varsity mark in the intermediate hurdles competition.

Several juniors and sophomores also set various records in the outdoor season and continued that pace in 1965. Particularly notable were Wilbert Davis, who became I.U.'s first 15-foot pole vaulter and Co-Captain Terry Shy, who clipped four seconds from the 1000-yard run standard.

The outstanding accomplishment of the dual meet season was the upset of Michigan State, second in the Big Ten. In addition to Shy and Davis, Randy Weddle and Larry Siesky also placed in the Big Ten Meet and were repeated scorers for it.

All eyes are on I.U. Co-Captain Cornelius "Sonny" Miller as he clears another height on the way to one of his many victories in an outstanding career. Miller established new track and varsity records in this meet.

recreation through all-campus participation

Director Robert Stumpner of the Intramural Department had a busy year in 1965. Besides the usual responsibilities of co-ordinating the I-M program, he was also in charge of scheduling the varsity sports of fencing and soccer.

A UNIVERSITY could be a lonely place for many students if it were not for the intramural program. During 1964-65, Director Robert Stumpner supervised the I.U. multi-sport program which saw over 4,000 active participants. The wide range of activities covered the area from chess to all-campus basketball tournaments.

Intramurals is one of the largest functions at I.U. and along with the many activities, the program and Mr. Stumpner must provide officials for the events. Taken from a field of Health, Physical Education, and Recreation majors, the officials gather knowledge which can later be utilized in related fields.

Assistant Dale Phelps was in charge of the varied and complete scheduling activities, and he masterminded the scheduling of about 15,000 different individual teams during the entire year.

is the goal of the i.u. intramural program

Basketball in Indiana is a reaction, not just recreation. The I-M program provides variations of the sport from tournaments to free throw shooting contests. League play, however, is usually the most exciting and rewarding during the winter.

Touch football makes up the major part of the fall intramural program and the teams usually take all available time to practice for the rival contests.

The group was organized to assemble men in the fellowship of the Boy Scout Oath and Law, to develop leadership, to promote friendship, to provide service to the community, and to further the freedom of intellect that is our national heritage.

Alpha Phi Omega members participated in numerous philanthropic projects throughout the year: they gave help to the local Boy Scout Council, were responsible for guided tours on campus, and gave several scholarships.

THE BOARD OF AEONS is an advisory group to the President of Indiana University and is chiefly concerned with the making of all policy matters affecting the welfare of the University. The Board meets with and submits reports to the President on such matters as far ranging as athletics, University relations with the community, and general student welfare. Because of the responsibilities of this group, their work usually remains confidential, and thus the University community may not always be aware of their work. Membership in the group is limited to junior and senior men, selected by the President and Dean of Students' Offices on the basis of academic and activities records and their interest in I. U.

THE CLASS OF 1965 sandwiched in its many activities in the rush of making sure it would graduate on time. Among this year's projects were the traditional planning of commencement ceremonies. In cooperation with the other class organizations, plans were begun for the awarding of recognition to an alumnus who has made an outstanding contribution to higher education either in administration, or research and teaching. A plaque would be set to honor the recipient of this award. The class also began work on an all-class loan fund, that should be established in the near future. The class cabinet continued its work of past years in voicing student opinion to administration.

THE COSMOPOLITAN CLUB, a social organization founded to further campus relations between international students and American students at I. U., has a record membership of 650 students and faculty members. Guided by an expanded executive committee, the club presented a variety of programs each week, each attempting to foster friendship and understanding of the nations of the world. These programs ranged from movies of other countries to complete evenings devoted to one particular country. The major accomplishment of the Cosmopolitan Club was the International Dinner held in November as the finale for International Week on campus.

EVEN THE MOST AUTHORITARIAN of leaders cannot escape being engulfed in the mountains of work that accompany any long-established institution. Here the Troika, The Indiana Daily Student's Big Three, are shown as they are truly absorbed in their work (or are they being absorbed by it?). Seriously, the work of the Student's editors is one of the most demanding, time-consuming jobs on campus, since it requires constant, daily work to produce any daily publication.

TODAY

A MAJOR CHANGE for The Indiana Daily Student during the past year was a switch to off-set printing, a method used to speed up actual press time. This change exemplifies the progressive attitude The Student has had since its founding in 1867. The daily campus paper serves as a laboratory for students in the Department of Journalism, and as such, reflects student ability as well as events of interest to students. Constant struggles to meet deadlines, the desire to make a bigger and better paper, change-over in personnel—all these were problems that The Student had to face during the year. But the challenge was met successfully and The World's Greatest College Daily completed its ninety-eighth year of continuous publication on campus.

inter-varsity christian fellowship

THE INTER-VARSITY CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP is a member of a national student organization whose purpose is to present the relevance of God to the college student on campus. The Fellowship is open to all Indiana University students who seek the answers to those many problems that usually confront the modern college student in his search for a better understanding of God and himself. With this goal in mind, the group presented weekly programs designed to provide information on pertinent topics. Noted speakers presented lectures on problems of current importance to students.

THE INTERFRATERNITY COUNCIL is the legislative, judicial, and coordinating body of the fraternity system at I. U. The members belong to a recognized fraternity and must maintain a 2.0 accumulative average to remain in the group. The IFC is chiefly responsible for setting goals and standards for organized men on the campus.

The group has had a wide array of speakers during the year as a part of their program. They have also sponsored scholarships for needy students. Among other activities have been the awarding of intramural athletic prizes, and trophies for homecoming. The IFC participated in a banquet with the members of the Panhellenic Council.

CO-ORDINATION OF PLEDGES and pledge classes is one of the main goals of the Junior Interfraternity Council. Composed of two members from each of the 32 pledge classes, the JIFC works to promote the exchange of ideas among the pledge classes, and to act as a representative body to the Interfraternity Council and to the administration in order to present one aspect of campus opinion.

In keeping with the group's community service goals, JIFC sponsored a Christmas party for the children of the Exchange Home. In addition, the members participated in other student-sponsored philanthropic events.

inter-residence halls association

ONE OF THE FEW residence halls organizations in the United States to govern men and women under one consitution, the Inter-Residence Halls Association celebrated its fifth anniversary this year as a co-educational institution. Working on hall, center, and inter-residence levels, the I. R. H. A. served to set and maintain standards for dormitory living. The executive council, composed of the presidents of all the dormitories, was guided by its officers in the improvement of dorm conditions, inter-residence communications, and relations with the administration. Another important branch of I. R. H. A. was the Judicial Board, which acted as an appeal court for cases from the center boards.

"THE GREATEST COLLEGE WEEKEND," better known as the Little 500, is the most dramatic result of student involvement in the work of the I. U. Foundation. Each year the members of the Foundation work hard to plan a continually improved weekend of festivities, the climax of which is the Mini trike race and the Little 500 itself. Proceeds from the many events of the Little 500 weekend go to provide student scholarships for I. U. students.

THE INDIANA UNIVERSITY FOUNDATION channels most of the gifts, grants, and scholarships that are given to the University. The students who are members of the Foundation aid in the work of this non-profit group by greeting Foundation and University alumni, by giving over 200 scholarships each year with the proceeds of Little 500 Weekend, and by selecting and honoring new Foundation members who are chosen on the basis of past contributions to campus activities. The basic goal of the I. U. Foundation is to forward the expansion of Indiana University through the well-planned administration of all gifts.

THE INITIATION of Mrs. Granville Wells as an honorary member was a highlight for the twenty-five members of Mortar Board, an honorary which gives recognition to junior women. Notified of their selection at the annual A. W. S. Mass Meeting in the spring, the members were selected on the basis of superior scholarship, outstanding leadership, and active service on the campus level.

Other activities of the group during the year were helping with newspaper distribution for the Daily Herald Telephone, and being hostesses at a breakfast for the wives of the Board of Aeons' alumni. They also escorted I-men at the Homecoming game.

SYNCHRONIZED SWIMMING in its many aspects is the basis for the foundation of Oceanides. Requirements for membership in this select group of forty-five are met through skills tryouts which test the ability of the members in basic strokes as well as in some of the more difficult stunts such as the back dolphin. Skills of the group were displayed in a special routine for Career Day and in the annual water show of the Oceanides.

THE PANHELLENIC EXECUTIVE COUNCIL is responsible for the leadership of I. U.'s Panhellenic Association which is composed of all the sororities on campus. During the year the council directed and coordinated the activities of the Association by planning programs for the weekly meetings of sorority presidents, by directing workshops for such specialized offices as pledge trainers and rush chairmen, and by sponsoring special programs such as the rushee convocation and a mass meeting for all new pledges.

Other important activities throughout the year were attendance at the Big-Ten Panhellenic Convention and the awarding of recognition and trophies to sororities having the highest grade averages.

JUNIOR PANHELLENIC COUNCIL is composed of the pledge class presidents of I. U.'s twenty sororities. The council is one of the most productive of all inter-sorority groups since it serves as a workshop to iron out problems of Greek living, to share ideas on many phases of campus life, and to coordinate the many pledge classes in activities, standards, and goals. The group also provides for the adequate training of sorority leaders in their various functions.

In addition to these more serious aspects of the council, during the past year, it sponsored a Christmas party at the Exchange Home, had several speakers at the meetings, and gave a pizza party for the members of the incoming Junior Panhellenic Council.

MALE FRESHMEN who have at least a 3.5 accumulative average for their first semester or first year are eligible for the national honorary, Phi Eta Sigma.

In planning a Freshman reception with Alpha Lambda Delta, a women's scholastic honorary, Phi Eta Sigma gave impetus to scholarship. Also, two delegates were sent to the national convention at the University of Illinois.

The year was full with two banquets that were held to honor fall and spring initiates, Awards given by Phi Eta Sigma to freshman and seniors with the highest grade average, and plaques for Indiana high schools having highest freshman grades at I. U.

HEADLINE NEWS for the Sailing Club, this year, was the addition of four new boats, thus bringing the total to ten. The club had its center of operations at Lake Lemon where most of the club's membership did their practice sailing. Throughout the year, the club had weekly meetings at which they conducted a "shore school" to improve techniques and to familiarize club members with various terms and race courses with which they were faced in the past year. With all this experience on their side, the Sailing Club won the area eliminations in the Timmie Angston Race which is held at the Chicago Yacht Club.

whirlwind of successful programs

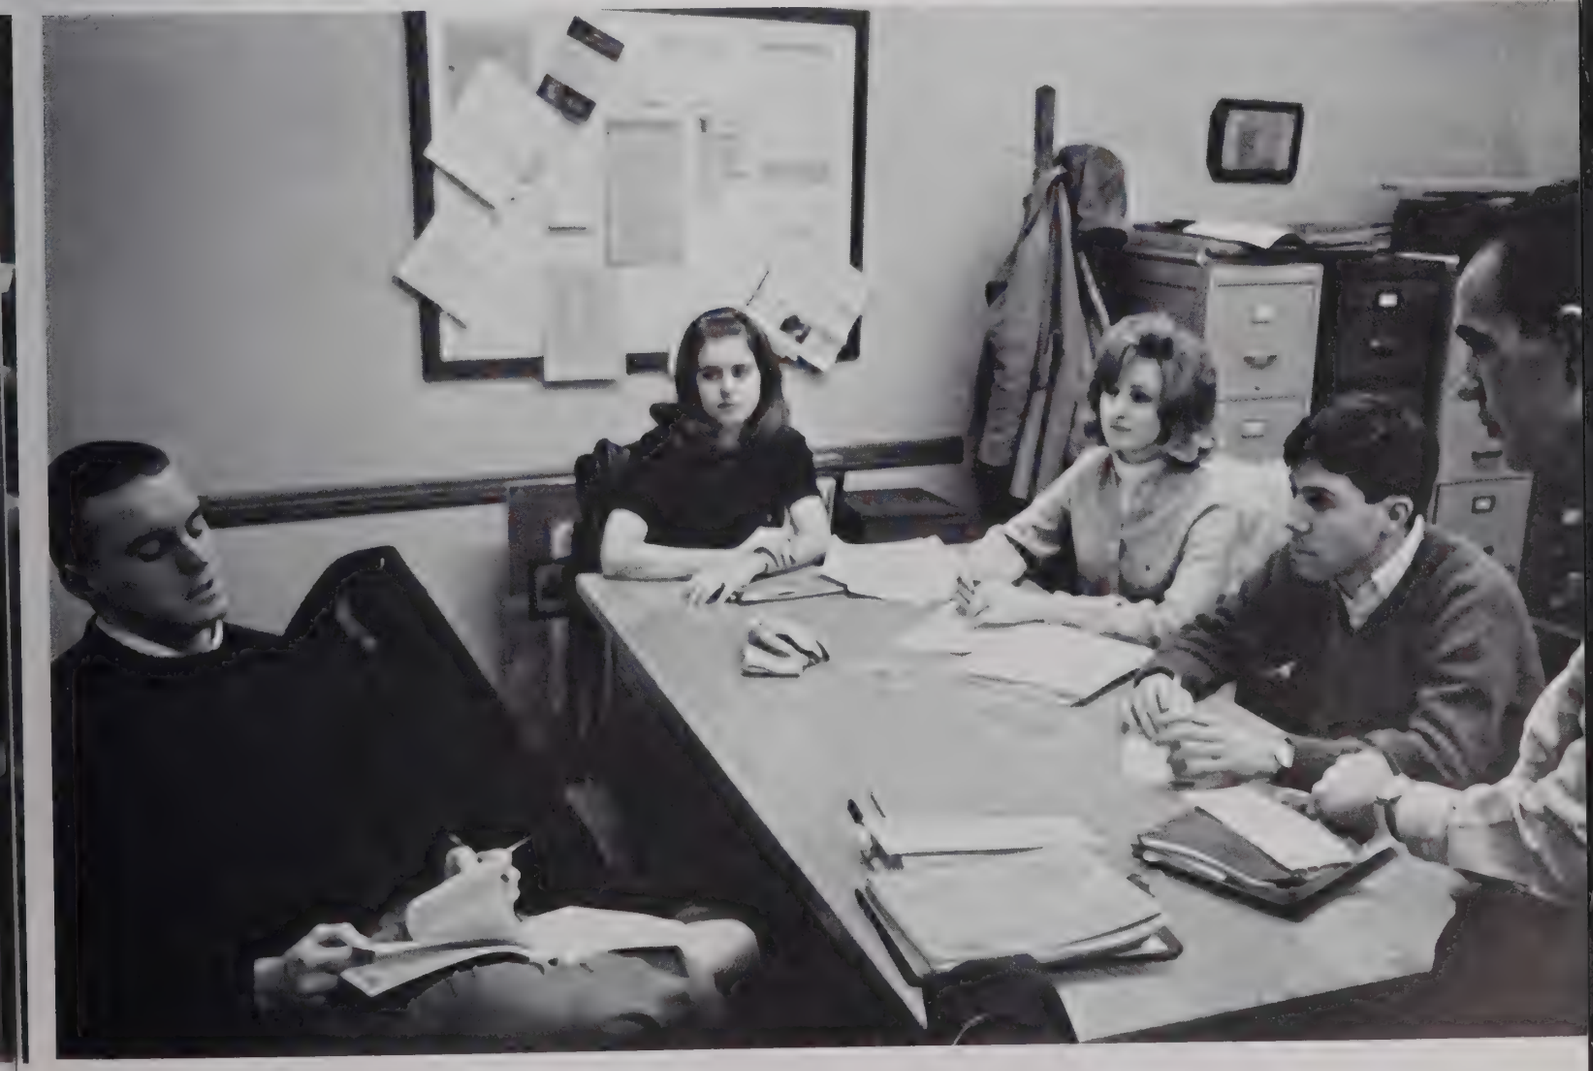

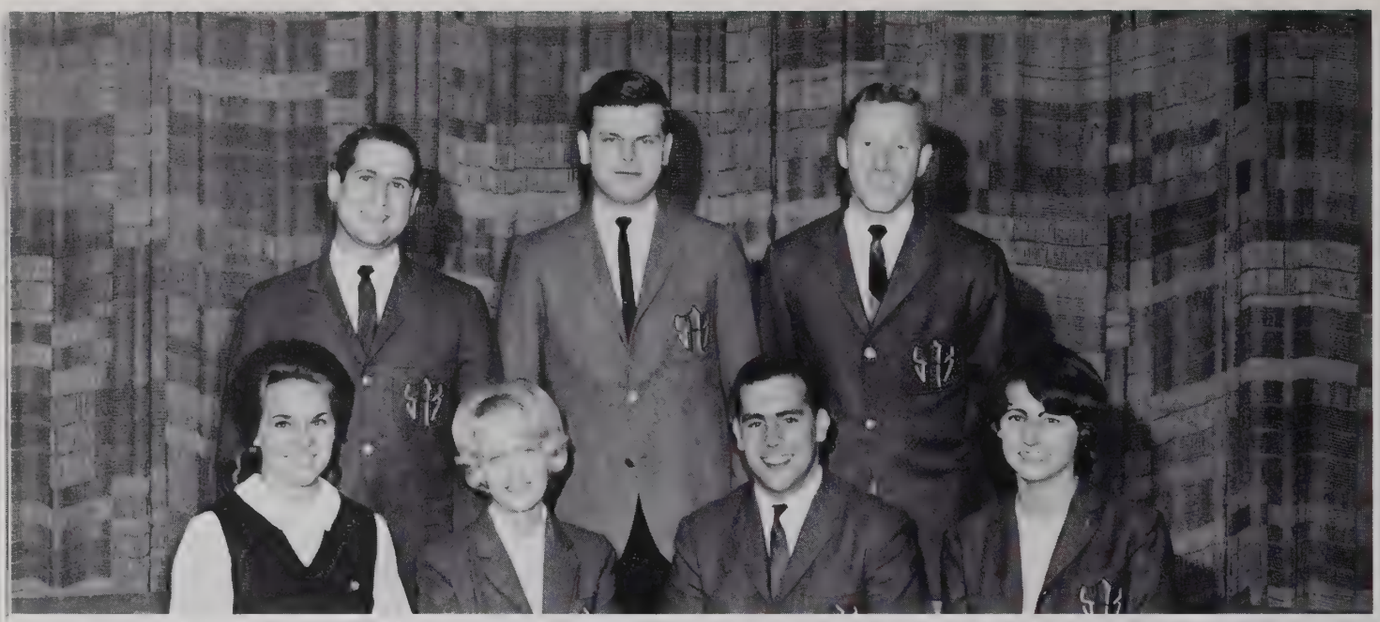

BIG NEWS FOR STUDENT GOVERNMENT during the past year was affiliation with American Student Government Associations as a charter member. Ties with this group will help student government at I. U. become more aware of what other colleges and universities are doing in this area. Among other highly successful projects of the past year was the initiation of International Week, under the supervision of the International Affairs Commission. A complete series of weekly events, including lectures, displays, and movies, was planned to foster interest and understanding of international affairs and of foreign students at I. U. Another first for the year was the Campus Chest Drive, an attempt to make up for funds lost as a result of cancellation of the annual Fall Carnival.

student athletic board rallies school spirit

PEP AND SCHOOL SPIRIT are the two words which best express the goals that the Student Athletic Board tried to achieve during the past year. Continually seeking new ways to get the student body to back all of I. U.'s teams, the S. A. B. sponsored pep rallies, sold booster buttons, and invaded the campus with letters, signs, and radio announcements. The Board was in charge of Homecoming weekend events and planned a pep rally and a parade to boost team morale.

THE INDIANA MEMORIAL UNION Board of Directors had, as their main objective, to meet the needs of students at Indiana University in the areas of cultural, recreational, and social development above and beyond the reach of the academic program of the University. With this goal in mind, the Union Board was responsible for the Campus Quiz Bowl, a program designed to further students' interest in being more well-rounded, academically. The President's Ball, annually a gala affair, officially opened the formal dance season. Top talents of the day were brought to campus in the form of the ever-popular Pop Concerts. Other Union Board events were Christmas Eve on Campus, Lycea Dinners, and the First Fling.

The goal of the group was to help women realize a full and creative life through a growing knowledge of God. With this goal as a guide, the Y. W. C. A. rendered many services to the campus and the community, among which were the sponsorship of study groups, work in community problems, planning of Freshman Camp, close co-operation with the administration in the student leader program, and chief responsibility for the sale of Red Books on campus.

"STONEAGE STOMP" was the 1964 pledge dance for which the men of Acacia donned leopard-skin cavemen costumes. This was only the first of their many successful social events. The Iron Triangle, held with Alpha Tau Omega, the Christmas dance, and the Collonade were also highlights in this, their forty-fifth year on the I.U. campus.

The Acacias definitely proved themselves to be on the move as far as their all-campus records were concerned. This year they entered Little 500 and were partners with Alpha Phi in the I. U. Sing after finishing third, last year, with Kappa Kappa Gamma. They also won first place in intramural softball and participated in other interfraternity sports during the year. It was truly an active year for an accomplished fraternity.

HOMECOMING VICTORY belonged to the jubilant Alpha Gamma Delta sorority and their co-sponsor Chi Phi when they won the best over-all trophy and the first place award for the float division of the 1965 Homecoming with their float, "Sea of Defeat." To brighten the spring season they teamed with Kappa Delta Rho for the I. U. Sing, gave their annual pledge dance, and backed the newly organized Pi Kappa Alphas in their bid for victory in Little 500.

After being the recipient of the national scholastic award, the house turned to charity, giving a party at Easter for the cerebral palsy children during which the Alpha Gams played games and presented Easter baskets to each of the children.

CORN ON THE COB was served by the men of Alpha Epsilon Pi and the Delta Zeta women to welcome the students back to school during their all campus dance, "The Cob." The dance was held in Woodlawn Field with music furnished by the Electras.

Talent shone during the year as the AEPis participated in I. U. Sing. They were also active in the recreational field with inter-fraternity football games and interest in Little 500. Their enthusiasm in maintaining scholastic ideals was imminent as their local chapter received the Scholarship Improvement award from their national chapter. Dances, recreational activities, and studying plunged the AEPis into activity.

HALLOWEEN AND HOMECOMING brought special planning and activity to the Alpha Epsilon Phi house this year. The pledges' Halloween party for children at the Christian Center came just before Homecoming, when the house "Sounded the Alarm for Victory" in their lawn display. The enchanting foreign atmosphere of a ski lodge served as the theme for the girls' fun-filled and wintery December dance.

Popular folk sings around the fireplace became practice sessions for I. U. Sing. Parents' Weekend and their State Day in May crept into the girls' spare weekends before the AEPhis joined the men of Zeta Beta Tau in the Little 500.

THE WOMEN OF Alpha Kappa Alpha were kept busy this year with dances and Homecoming. They had a joint initiation dance with the men of Kappa Alpha Psi recalling "Some Enchanted Evening." The new pledges of Alpha Kappa Alpha were introduced at their pledge dance entitled "Les Bohemes." For their community project they also held a dance to gather contributions for the Boys' Club. "Old Fashioned Victory" was the Alpha Kappa Alpha - Kappa Alpha Psi lawn display for Homecoming weekend.

These women were quite proud that their chapter won second place in the region as an outstanding chapter and that they won third in the TEKE Chariot Race costumes.

MUCH OF THE YEAR for Alpha Xi Delta women was devoted to the support of community services. They worked with children at the Christian Center, giving special attention to the problems and prevention of juvenile delinquency, and actively canvassing in the annual cancer drive, the diligent girls gave attention to their philanthropy.

For Homecoming the pledges sponsored an all-campus mum sale and in spring participated in I. U. Sing. All work and no play has not been the fate of these women, for they sponsored both a Christmas formal and a spring pledge dance. Informally, they enjoyed participating in the hootenanny given at Harper Hall. Later, the Alpha Xi's sponsored a fall hayride.

CULTURAL EVENTS WERE INTERMINGLED with the social and the academic atmosphere which the women of Alpha Omicron Pi had the chance to enjoy, this year. The "VIP" fall pledge dance, a Senior Christmas Dance, and a Foreign Student Picnic filled the AOPi social calendar. For many years, the girls have entertained the faculty of the Business School by serving them coffee or tea with cookies in the School's lounge for faculty members.

Active in numerous campus activities, the AOPi's won second place in the Women's Choral Group in the I. U. Sing. Powder puff football gave AOPi spirit which carried over to Little 500 during which they rooted for Kappa Delta Rho riders. Though it was a chilly December, the girls warmly celebrated the founding of their national sorority.

THIS YEAR MARKED THE centennial of the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity. Besides celebrating this event, they enjoyed many campus activities. They participated in I. U. Sing with Alpha Chi Omega and worked on Little 500 with Pi Beta Phi. Sponsoring dances is always fun and this year the ATO's had their fair share. The Iron Triangle and the Chinatown dance were both great successes.

As the result of many diligent sessions on study table, I. U. chapter was the recipient of the scholarship improvement trophy at State Day. Working with Kappa Kappa Gamma for the Bloomington Boy's Club was a rewarding service project for the ATO's during the year.

alpha phi

PROUDLY PRESENTING Miss Indiana University of 1964, Suzanne Siegesmund, the women of Alpha Phi began a whirlwind of activities. In the fall they were cosponsors of the Delta Upsilon Du Drop-In. Later the Alpha Phis harmonized with the Acacias in I. U. Sing, cheered Lambda Chi Alpha in the Little 500, and presented their traditional Christmas party.

The local chapter received a gavel for being one of the three outstanding chapters in the nation and won the national Alpha Phi song award. Collecting donations for their national philanthropy, the Cardiac Aid Fund, and the United Fund also kept them busy. The annual spring pledge dance ended a wonderful year for the Alpha Phis.

ALPHA PHI ALPHA fraternity placed their main emphasis on scholarship and ranked eleventh among the campus fraternal organizations. They have also been active in campus-wide events, sponsoring both a Little 500 dance and picnic. A Homecoming dance and an annual pledge dance were among the other traditional activities supported by the fraternity.

For Homecoming this year the men of Alpha Phi Alpha joined in co-sponsorship with Omega Psi Phi fraternity. In the area of campus athletics the fraternity has participated in intramural basketball. Every year Alpha Phi Alpha supports an associated fraternity of graduate students that grants scholarships to high school girls who can greatly benefit.

OFF TO A WINNING START were the Alpha Chi Omegas when their homecoming float, "Hoosier Harmony - Gopher Discord," co-sponsored by Phi Delta Theta, won first prize in the organized float division. Twisting to the music of Sir Winston and the Commoners at the Alpha Chi Omega - Sigma Phi Epsilon "Grum" the Alpha Chi spirit showed itself again as it did when the Alpha Chis gave their annual Christmas party for underprivileged children.

In the spring, Alpha Chi women distinguished themselves by enthusiastic participation in the I. U. Sing and by sponsoring the first place winners in the Little 500 for the second consecutive year.

They continued to exhibit their social enthusiasm through the year with the Barn Dance and Roman Orgy. A banquet served by the actives was followed by a dance, last spring, as the Beta pledge class enjoyed their night of importance.

The men welcomed Christian K. Koohler as the German exchange student, this past year. Chris was part of the Beta foreign exchange program in which a German student comes here for a year while a member is sent there to study. The annual Alpha Chi Omega - Beta Christmas party for orphans enhanced holiday spirit as the year was quite successfully completed with I. U. Sing.

THE CHRISTMAS SEASON was gaily ushered in by the Gamma Phi Betas at their annual tree trimming party. With tinsel and popcorn strings they awaited the Christmas dance, the last big event before the sisters departed for holiday vacations. The Yuletide spirit behind them, the girls turned to Homecoming. With the Sigma Chis they won second prize in organized float competition.

In spring the Gamma Phis competed in I. U. Sing with "We're Florida Bound," aimed for a repeat of their 1963 Mini victory, and cheered for the Acacias in hopes of a victory in Little 500. Amid the waves of activities, the local chapter remained devoted to scholarship, winning the national chapter's scholarship improvement award.

NICKNAMES WERE POPULAR this year with Delta Gamma members; Mrs. Lura Barry, the sorority's new housemother, quickly acquired a new name: Mother B. In addition, the DG's welcomed their tenth foreign exchange student, EEva-Riita Parnanen, from Finland, who, after a few days in the house, became fondly known as Eva.

In association with their nationwide program of sight conservation and aid to the blind, the girls read to two blind students on campus.

Early in the fall the DG pledges proudly presented their project to active members: a newly painted dormitory. DG social projects included a Christmas dance, a spring pledge dance, and Homecoming.

THE WOMEN of Delta Delta Delta stepped into the swing of fall activities by issuing a public invitation to their annual "Hick Hop." In association with this theme, they presented a hootenany with the men of Lambda Chi Alpha for Homecoming. Phi Delta Theta received full support from the Tri Delts as the fraternity riders mounted their roadmasters for Little 500 race in the spring.

Ranking high on the sorority's list of honors was their second place award in the all-sorority grade average. Philanthropic projects were of prime importance to the women as with the men of Phi Gamma Delta they shared Christmas with underprivileged children and spread the Christmas spirit.

Between four and six thousand people crowded Woodlawn Field to enjoy corn on the cob while they danced to the music of the Electras. The DZ's also sponsored a beatnik "Monster Mash", a Christmas dance, a spring formal in the Solarium, and a Valentine's Dance.

The DZ's also found time for campus participation in Homecoming and Little 500 and entered I. U. Sing to defend their small group trophy won last year with the Phi Sigma Kappas. The pledges also won a second-place trophy for TEKE Chariot Race costumes. Throughout the year the DZ's supported speech and hearing projects.

THE COMPLETION OF THEIR NEW HOUSE out on North Jordan is something which the men of Delta Tau Delta had long been anticipating. Although they waited until second semester before moving, the Delts agree that it was time well used, for their large home is completely air-conditioned.

The Delts opened their fall social calendar with the 18th annual Street Dance which was co-sponsored by Pi Beta Phis. Later in the year the men participated in the Little 500 with the support of Kappa Delta and in the I. U. Sing with Kappa Alpha Theta. The Delts, not to be outdone in sports, held the 1963 first place trophies in touch football and fast pitch softball.

ANNIVERSARIES are always special, and this year Delta Upsilon is celebrating its Golden Anniversary on the Indiana University Campus.

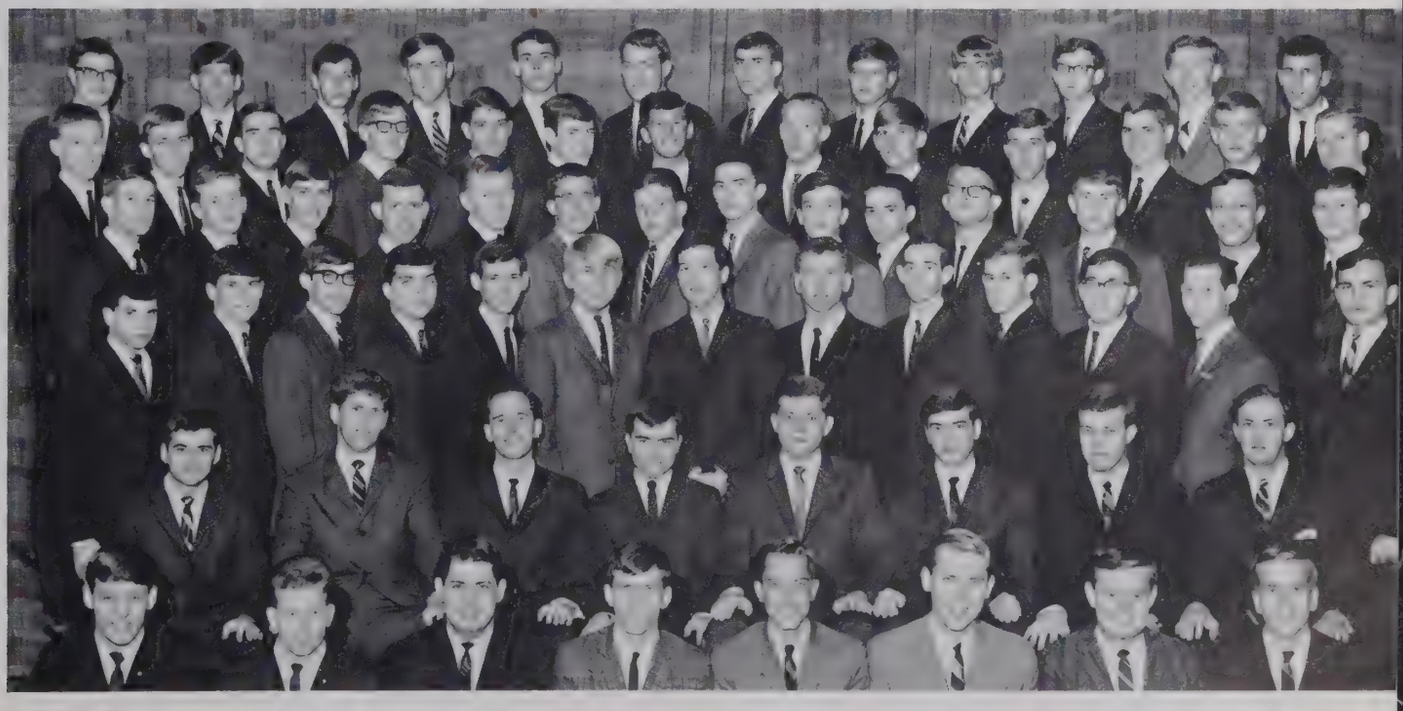

The men of Delta Upsilon enjoyed participating in almost all of the Interfraternity Council's intramural competitions. In the 1964 Slo-Pitch competition they won the runner-up trophy.

Singing and dancing seem to belong together, and the DU's combined these two in their activities. Among the dances were the all-campus dance, DU Drop In, carried out with a western theme and held with co-sponsor Alpha Phi. Some of their other dances included the Barn Dance, Playboy Dance, Ft. Lauderdale dance, and spring formal. I. U. Sing brought them a first place trophy.

The ZBT's held their annual all-campus open house, featuring the music of the Drifters, during Homecoming Weekend and entered Little 500, cheered by the women of Alpha Epsilon Phi. The house received the Louis B. Marshall Interfaith trophy, the National Rushing trophy, and various intramural trophies in bowling and softball. The ZBT's also contributed to the Campus Chest and sponsored a spring formal, a sophomore dance, and a pledge dance.

SCHOLARSHIP ACTIVITIES and fun dominated the celebration of the Zeta Tau Alpha's eighth year in their new house. The Pumpkin Prance was the sorority's bewitching way of observing Halloween. Later in the year a Christmas Tree Trimming dance put the girls in a jovial holiday mood. This year, it was the pledges who stole the show by winning the pledge sing award at the 1964 State Day. Later, the house joined their talent with the Alpha Tau Omegas for the 1964 I. U. Sing, winning second place in the mixed choral group. Sigma Phi Epsilon had their support in the spring Little 500 race.

Philanthropic activities included a Cerebral Palsy drive during which they entertained children.

theta chi

THE MEN OF THETA CHI love to dance as is evident from the many and varied dances they sponsored during the year. The Bicycle Bounce, an annual dance preceding the Little 500 race, got the big weekend off to a tremendous start. The Theta Chis also participated in the annual bike race itself. The Barn Dance, Christmas Dance, Dream Girl Dance, and the spring pledge dance were some of the other unusual dances the men of Theta Chi sponsored.

This year the Theta Chis entered I. U. Sing and defended their State Day sing trophy from last year. Athletics was also a major interest as shown by the many trophies for bowling, football, basketball, and baseball in their trophy case.

FIRST PLACE in the mixed choral division went to Kappa Alpha Theta as they joined forces with the Sigma Nus. Victory also rewarded the girls when they yelled for Sigma Alpha Epsilon runners in the Teke Chariot Race. Still another trophy came to the Thetas and Sigma Alpha Mu for third place in Homecoming floats. Spring heard Thetas blending voices with Delta Tau Delta in I. U. Sing and cheering for Beta Theta Pi's fast-pedaling Little 500 team.

The sophomore class presented "Alice in Thetaland" for the spring pledge class and the fall pledges were honored at the Christmas dance. The Thetas added a serious touch by supporting the Institute of Logopedics again this year.

"SOME ENCHANTED EVENING," fall pledge dance, was among the many social activities held by the men of Kappa Alpha Psi. Their Little 500 dance, co-sponsored by the Sigma Alpha Mus was an all-campus rhythmic success. For the Tau Kappa Epsilon Chariot Race, the Kappa Alpha Psi joined forces with the women of Alpha Kappa Alpha to win third place in the costume competition of the evening event.

Kappa Alpha Psi fraternity has also been active in the community. Their pledge class has worked at the Christian Center; and the entire fraternity, with the help of Sigma Delta Tau sorority, sponsored a Thanksgiving party for underprivileged children. The fraternity supported the national Guide Right Movement.

THREE PANHELLENIC scholarship trophies were awarded to Kappa Delta this year: the most improved scholarship, outstanding scholarship for pledges, and outstanding scholarship for actives.

To relieve the monotony of academic pressure, the girls became quite proficient in a new leisure sport called skate surfing. All they needed was a skate board, a challenging hill, and plenty of adventuresome spirit.

Formal dances were held at Christmas. With spring came the White Rose Formal and the anticipation of Little 500. Switching from fun to philanthropy, the girls caroled Christian Center children.

kappa delta rho

WITH THE ACTIVATION of an exchange student from Durham College, Durham, England, the men of Kappa Delta Rho recorded another first. Their year began with their second place Homecoming lawn display victory shared with Chi Omega. They also entered the Little 500 with Alpha Omicron Pi and I. U. Sing with the Alpha Gamma Deltas after last year's second place triumph in small group competition of the sing.

The social whirl of the KDR's included the Winter Formal held in honor of the pledge class, the Christmas semi-formal, the Rodeo Dance, and pledge dance "Unpredictable." Throughout all their activities, and especially Help Week, the KDR's have shown their interest in the I. U. campus.

KAPPA KAPPA GAMMA, first in scholarship during the fall of 1963, still found time for many and varied social activities. First on the list were the well known Kappa Pickers, a traditional part of the I. U. campus musical scene. This year brought the Barn Dance in the fall and the formal pledge dance in the spring.

Other activities included participation in I. U. Sing in cooperation with Sigma Alpha Mu and spirited support for the Sigma Alpha Epsilon bike team in the Little 500. In addition to a well-filled social calendar, the women of Kappa Kappa Gamma still had time to sponsor worthy philanthropies. They provided scholarships for college students and aided families, financially, through the Rose McGill Fund.

THE MEN OF KAPPA SIGMA rang in 1965 with the opening of their new air-conditioned house on North Jordan. They combined scholarship, athletics, and fun for a busy, but enjoyable, year. Political flair was added to student activities when Tom Ensor, a Kappa Sig pledge, ran for freshman class president and other members held positions in campus politics.

The stress on scholarship proved profitable for they received a scholarship trophy from the Interfraternity Council for the most improved house on campus. All was not work; fun came in the form of intramural sports, Little 500 competition, and several house dances.

lambda chi alpha

LONG HOURS OF ASSIDUOUS WORK with Delta Delta Delta produced a homecoming display for Lambda Chi Alpha. Other main events included I. U. Sing; Little 500, co-sponsored by Alpha Phi; and their annual Lawn Party and Open House. Varying their activities, they participated in all phases of intramurals and entertained Senator Vance Hartke after a political rally in Bloomington.

Success put a brilliance to the work put into the Lambda Chi's social dances. Besides the fun of sponsoring these social affairs, the men took to under-handed tactics when they obtained canned goods for needy families as ransom for kidnaped sorority house mothers. Also, they held their annual Easter Egg Hunt for the children of Bloomington.

pi beta phi

SANDWICH BOARDS advertising the Delt Street Dance were a familiar sight this fall, as the Pi Beta Phis helped to cosponsor the annual all-campus dance. Building the Homecoming decorations with the Beta Theta Pis and organizing the Monmouth Duo with the Kappa Kappa Gammas accounted for two of Pi Phi's fall semester activities.

Pitching in with feminine support and advice, the house paired with the Alpha Tau Omegas during the Little 500 festivities in the spring.

As a special community service the Pi Phis gave a party for underprivileged children. Again, this Christmas, they made decorations and gifts for Bloomington hospitals.

THE AUGUST, 1964 national convention in Denver, Colorado was the first in a memorable chain of events for the men of Pi Kappa Alpha at I. U. After moving into their newly renovated 3rd Street house, the colony became the Delta Xi chapter in February. To complete their interfraternity activities, the brothers celebrated the 95th anniversary of their national founding at the University of Virginia.

The Pikes entered the I. U. social scence with informal dances, the Dream Girl Formal, and the Spook Dance. In addition the men entered the Men's Choral Division of I. U. Sing and raced in their first Little 500, cheered by the women of Alpha Gamma Delta.

THE MEN OF PI KAPPA PHI entertained the national president of their chapter during a Founder's Day banquet, on December 8th. This was one of the major events of the year; however, they also participated in many campus activities. The Pi Kappa Phis sponsored two dances, Left Bank and their Rose Ball, and also took part in Little 500, I. U. Sing, intramural sports, and the Homecoming float competition.

The climax of the year, for these men, was their moving. When the Delta Tau Deltas moved into their new house, the Pi Kappa Phis moved into their vacant one. Between semesters, they vacated their house on Second Street and moved to the Indiana Avenue location.

LAST YEAR Gamma chapter of Sigma Alpha Epsilon received the John O. Moseley Zeal Award. This award is given to the nation's most outstanding SAE chapter over a period of years. Last year the men of Sigma Alpha Epsilon also won first place for their Homecoming display and received honorable mention for their Fall Carnival booth which the Delta Gammas co-sponsored. In the fall the SAE's joined with the women of Alpha Phi for homecoming. During I. U. Sing they harmonized with the Sigma Delta Taus, and their bike riders for Little 500 were cheered by Kappa Kappa Gamma.

Pledges were honored with a dance, "From Heaven to Hell." In the spring the SAE's held their Gypsy dance.

SCHOLARSHIP WAS THE PRIDE AND THE BOAST of the men of Sigma Alpha Mu as they were presented the scholarship trophy by Interfraternity Council. Further honor was still to come, in the presentation of the National Religious Key granted to Garry Gardner.

The men raised their competitive spirit by entering Homecoming festivities with Kappa Alpha Theta. "Birdland," theme of the chapter's annual dance, began a whirl of winter and spring dances. With a change of mood, the men joined the women of Kappa Kappa Gamma in I. U. Sing.

With Kappa Alpha Psi, the chapter sponsored their annual Little 500 Weekend dance after cycling in the competitive spring race and being supported by Clark House of Daniel Read Center.

TO SPARK HOMECOMING festivities, the women of Sigma Delta Tau held a campus-wide dance, co-sponsored with Zeta Beta Tau. To celebrate their twenty-fifth anniversary on campus, the sisters enjoyed a busy year of scholarship dinners, formal and informal dances, and many fraternity exchanges. After harmonizing with the men of Sigma Alpha Epsilon in the I. U. Sing, the SDT's screamed their support for the Sigma Chi riders during Little 500 weekend.

With parties for young and old, SDT supported projects for the Exchange Home children and for Bloomington's senior citizens. Their agenda included intramural sports and an open house, sponsored by SDT's, for their new sisters.

ADOPTING GRANDPARENTS was the organized community project of Sigma Kappa this year. In this program they visited and enthusiastically entertained elderly shut-ins. The Maine Seacoast Mission, which helps isolated fishing communities, was also included in the chapter's philanthropic program.

Winning first place in the TEKE Chariot Race for the best costumes and placing second in the Mini kept them busy last spring. The rest of this year's schedule included creating Homecoming decorations, joining voices with the men of Delta Upsilon for I. U. Sing, supporting the riders of Phi Kappa Psi in the Little 500, and having a Christmas dance and a spring formal. In November the women celebrated their 90th year.

DANCES FORMED THE CORE of Sigma Nu activity last year. The men began their social whirl with their annual "Bar Room Brawl" and then ushered in the holiday season with their "Can't Wait 'Till New Year's" celebration. In February they presented the traditional White Rose formal and ended their social year with the "Island of Voodoo" dances.

The Sigma Nus also participated in other phases of campus life. With the women of Chi Omega they hosted a Foreign Student Christmas Party and in the spring joined voices with the Delta Delta Deltas in the I. U. Sing. Enthusiastically backed by the Delta Gammas, the Sigma Nu bike team again rounded the cinder track for Little 500, the end to their year.

LIKE NO OTHER YEAR since Sigma Pi's founding at I. U., this was one of special anticipation. Above the hopes the men held for victory in the Little 500 and I. U. Sing was their eagerness for the completion of their ultramodern house on fraternity row.

The Electras created music for "Pahdnahs and Their Gals" at the 1964 pledge dance. Their second annual dance, the Orchid Formal, helped the Sig Pis to regally usher in spring. The major projects of the house was the adoption of a Korean orphan. Through their contributions he is being fed, clothed, and aided in his education. The activities of Sigma Pi also included participation in interfraternity sports.

WITH THE SIGMA PHI EPSILON-Alpha Chi Omega "Grum" in the fall, the Sig Ep's ushered in a busy year. On November first they celebrated their national Founders' Day and later hosted the Leadership Training Academy.

Socially, the Sig Eps enlivened the I. U. campus with their Twist or Treat dance, Queen of Hearts dance, two pledge dances, and many impromptu, casual h o p s. They tested their singing ability in I. U. Sing and in the spring showed their physical strength in Little 500, in which they were enthusiastically backed by Zeta Tau Alpha. Many intramural sports and the best national Sigma Phi Epsilon scrapbook added to their interests.

THE NINETEENTH ANNUAL MELON MESS, where 1,000 watermelons were served to students, signified the beginning of a successful year for the men of Sigma Chi. They also participated in Little 500 with Sigma Delta Tau and Homecoming with Gamma Phi Beta. They sponsored a pledge dance, sweetheart dance, and spring dance, and took part in intramural sports of many kinds.

During initiation week, the Sigma Chis aided the community by cleaning the city park. One good turn deserves another, so their own house received a new face-lifting. New lighting, new furniture, and phones in all rooms were a few of the luxuries the brothers enjoyed.

FOR THOSE WHO CAN "TEKE IT," life on campus is bustling with activity and brimming with the fellowship of fraternity life. To prove it, five major dances, including two pledge dances, the Homecoming and Christmas dances, and the annual Red Carnation Ball, highlighted the Tau Kappa Epsilon social schedule this full and busy year.

Charity being important to the house, the Tekes sponsored a Christmas party for underprivileged children in Bloomington. They also received two trophies for having the largest percentage of blood donors during the annual campus drive.

First place trophies were won in football leagues while they also prepared for the Teke chariot race.

THE MEN OF PHI GAMMA DELTA began the school year with numerous honors to their credit: they won the national plaque for having the best chapter newspaper; their house earned the trophy for the highest fraternity scholarship for the 1963 fall semester; and they captured the trophy for intramurals.

Besides living up to these honors, the Fijis took time out for many annual social functions. The traditional Pig Dinner, the Purple Garter, and Fiji Isle were a few of the social highlights in the Phi Gam house. The Delta Gamma-Fiji Homecoming display tested their skill and ingenuity and provided an opportunity for fun.

HIGHLIGHTING THE YEAR for the men of Phi Delta Theta was winning first place in the Homecoming lawn display. Working with the women of Alpha Chi Omega, they enacted the theme "Hoosier Harmony—Gopher Discord." Active in other events, the Phi Delts sponsored four house dances, "She-Delt," the Miami Triad, "Beachcomber," and the annual pledge dance. They also participated in I. U. Sing and Little 500, backed by Delta Delta Delta. Participation in athletics such as intramural football, basketball, and track earned runner-up awards for the Phi Delts.

Besides the fun an excitement of dances and sports, the Phi Delts sponsored the Miss I. U. contest.

ALTHOUGH 1964 WAS their first year on the Indiana University campus, the men of Phi Epsilon Pi celebrated their sixtieth national anniversary on November twenty-third of this year. Their "Happiness is Howling for the Hoosiers" theme won a fourth place trophy for Organized Homecoming Lawn Decorations for the Phi Epsilon Pis and the Sigma Kappas, their co-sponsors. The men also participated in the I. U. Sing in the spring and all the festivities of Little 500.

Throughout the year the Phi Epsilon Pis sponsored various seasonal formal dances including a festive costumed Christmas dance to spark holiday fun and a spring formal to end the year. They also livened their year with hayrides.

THIS YEAR MARKED the seventy-fifth anniversary of the Phi Kappa Theta fraternity. Once again the men of Phi Kappa Theta took an active part in campus social life, sponsoring the Fisheater's Fling, an all-campus dance, and two seasonal dances, one on St. Patrick's Day and one during the Christmas season. They participated in Little 500 festivities and later, backed by Kappa Delta, they won first place for their elaborate costumes in the annual Teke chariot race.

Awards were a mere habit with these men. In intramural competition they placed first in the softball division. Another award, the National Publications Award, was received from the national chapter in recognition of their journalistic success.

THE HARMONIOUS STRAINS of folk music at their fall hootenanny signaled the start of another successful year for Phi Kappa Tau. Social functions such as the Lady and the Tramp Party, Phi Tau Warrior Dance, Roaring Twenties Party, and the pledge Christmas semi-formal followed precedence.

Participation was in no way lacking as far as all campus events were concerned. They trained a team for Little 500 and entered I. U. Sing after placing third in their division last year. Newly acquired trophies for second place in costumes in the Teke Chariot Race and a first in intramural bowling added much to their honors. For the Phi Taus this was another year on the move.

PHI KAPPA PSI IS DISTINGUISHED as one of the oldest fraternities on this campus, having been here since 1869 when Delta Psi Theta, a local fraternity, joined the national organization. The fall of 1964 saw the formal dedication of the Phi Psi house at 1200 North Jordan. Among the dignitaries attending the festivities were Robert Leber, national president; Ralph Daniels, national secretary; and University representatives, President Elvis J. Stahr, Chancellor Herman B. Wells and Trustee Willis Hickam.

During the spring the brothers were kept busy entertaining the faculty at their Faculty Spring Open House. The main social event of the year was the annual "Arabian Knights' Dance."

HUSHED TONES bespeak most fraternity initiations. Tradition in the Phi Sigma Kappa house, for the past two years, has been early initiation, leaving little time for whispered queries.

Hoping to recapture the first place award in the small groups division, the men prepared early for competition in the I. U. Sing. Phi Sig's varied their dance tempo from the moody caverns of the "Inferno" dance to the frenzied heights of "Playboy" and "Roaring Twenties" dances to the serenity of a Moonlight Formal.

Recreational activities were dominated by football, softball, and early training sessions, for bike riders in anticipation of Little 500.

AS IN 1962 THE CHI PHIS took top honors in Homecoming decorations. This year, paired with the women of Alpha Gamma Delta, they won a proud first place in the float division as well as a first place in the over-all competition.

Sarongs and other Polynesian costumes added to the scenery of their fall pledge dance, "Polynesian Passion." In December the Chi Phis held a Christmas dance and planned their annual Christmas party for underprivileged children of Bloomington. In the spring they turned to an Italian version of "Roman Holiday" in which they followed the phrase and "did as the Romans did."

TRADITIONAL EVENTS at the Chi Omega house brought the most fun and memories for Chi O's this year. Their Homecoming lawn display, built with the help of Kappa Delta Rho, received a second place trophy. Sticky fingers and muffled cheering resulted at an October football game from the pledges' annual taffy apple sale. Profits went to the Exchange Home.

Also, given yearly with the Sigma Nus, was the Christmas party for foreign students, and the annual Carnation Ball. A year's effort chose the outstanding student for the Chi O Social and Civic Service Award. They were furnished with cheering fans in intramural basketball finals.

MEMBERS OF OMEGA PSI PHI fraternity celebrated National Founder's Day in November with their annual program; at this time a guest speaker from the national chapter spoke on the history of the group. In association with the national chapter, the men were presented an award for their participation in the National Talent Hunt Contest held this year.

Great enthusiasm was shown for intramural sports during the year: the Omega Psi Phi's participated in football, basketball, and baseball. Fraternity members worked hard to present their new initiates with a colorful holiday dance in December; they also enjoyed the more informal atmosphere of the many other dances which were given throughout the year.

A THIRD PLACE AWARD in the independent lawn displays for Homecoming was won this year by Foster Quad. Previously, they had won a trophy in the Mini parade.

Included in the fall and winter calendar was a hayride and at Christmas time, a party for underprivleged children. After the party the residents took the children shopping. On Sunday nights, movies were shown for the students in the quad. Third floor of Jenkinson was reserved for male students who wanted to study in a more scholastic atmosphere.

FIRSTS WERE IN ORDER for McNutt quadrangle this year as it was the first time the dorm was completely occupied and the first year that it was a co-educational dormitory.

"Smoke Up" was the appropriate title of a dance presented at the end of a grueling week of mid-term exams. Residents left their mid-term woes in another world as they danced to the music of the Count Five band. Besides other fall dances at Thanksgiving and at Christmas, McNutt men competed in intramural football while the girls cheered them on.

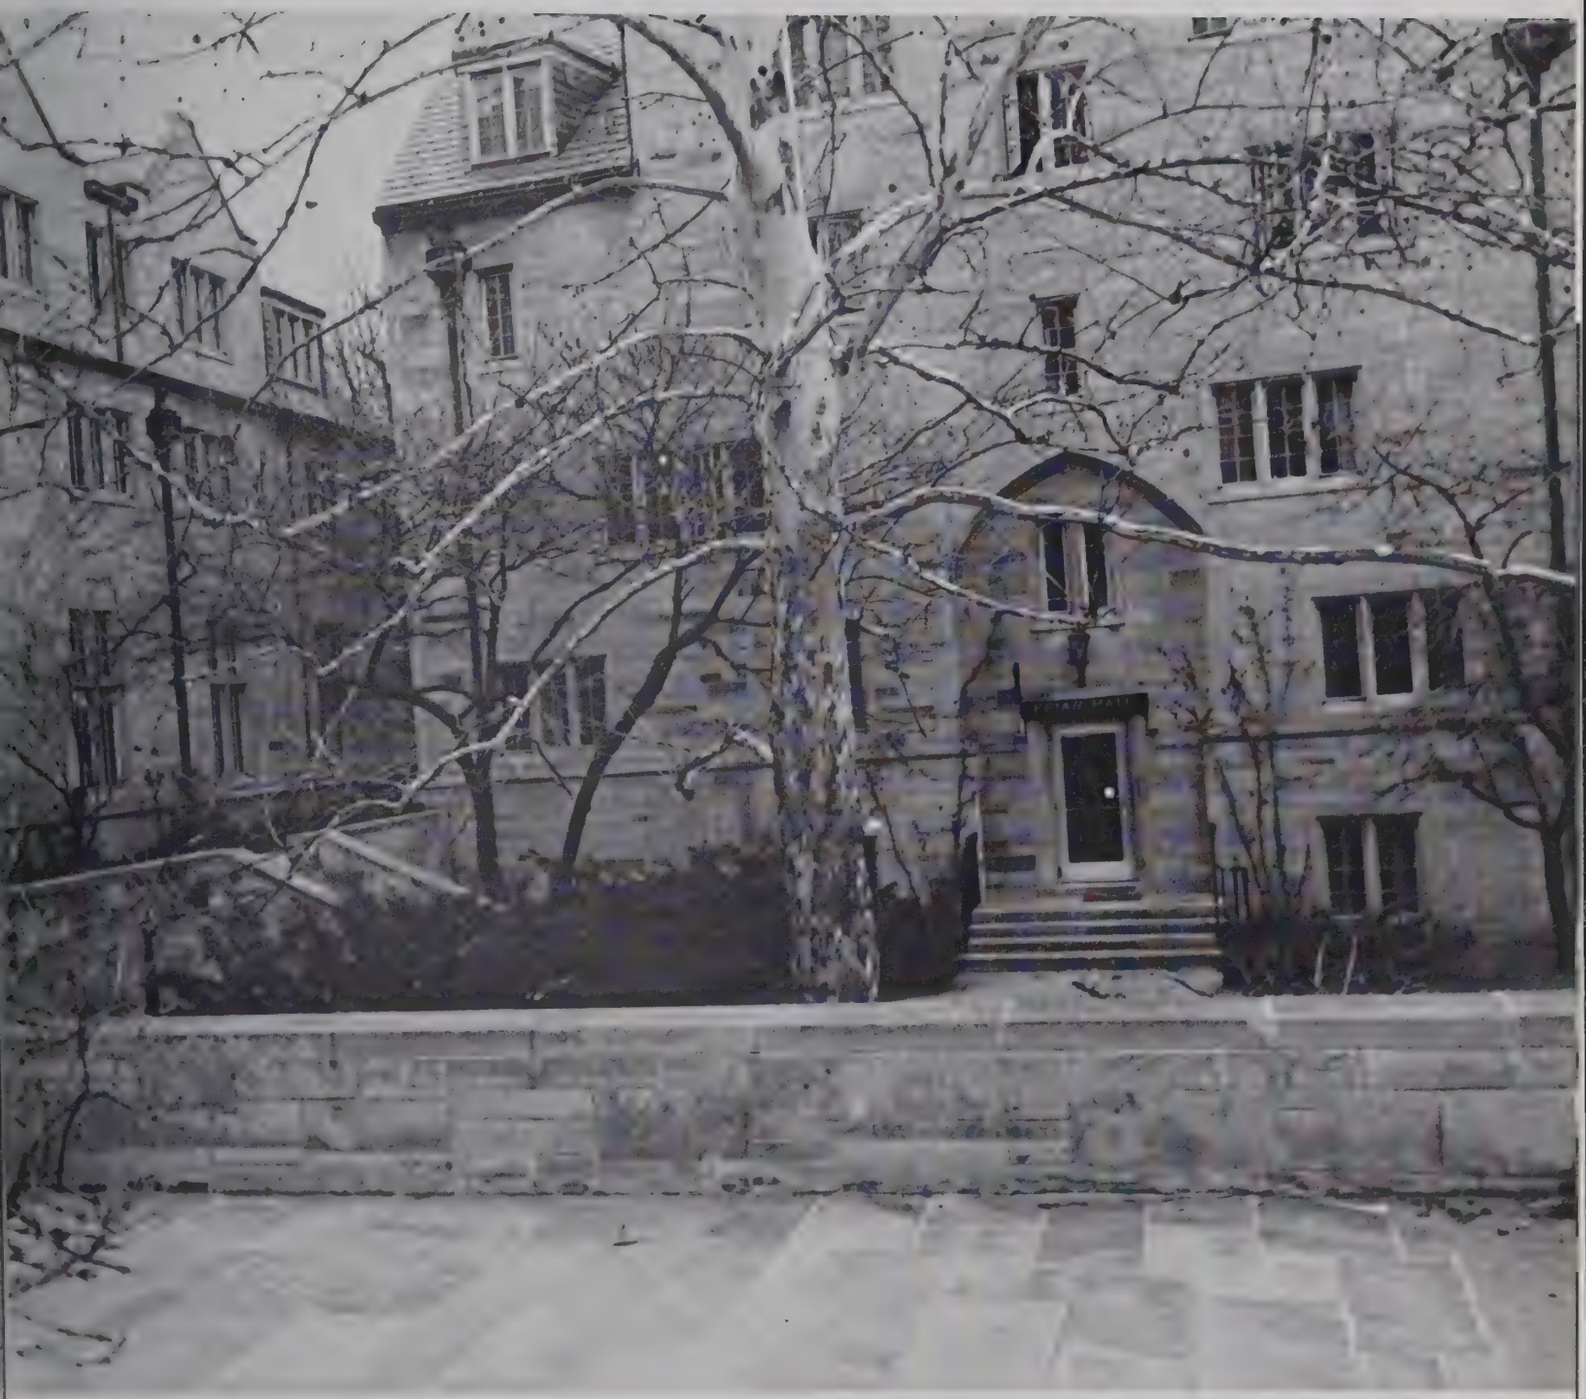

The Coraliers, a singing group formed with the quadrangle, sang at a Christmas recital and in I. U. Sing.

/ARIETY SHOWS ARE VERY ENJOYABLE for ll I. U. students, but the residents of Men's Resi-lence Center decided to do a little extra by holding a eception for the Gateway Trio after their perform-nce here. Also, for its residents MRC presented nany films, throughout the year, of educational or cientific or recreational value. However, with the pproach of December, the men became more so-ially inclined as they prepared for their annual Christmas dance.

Smith Hall, a part of MRC, celebrated its fortieth ear of operation, this year. The oldest dormitory on ampus, Smith Hall remains a popular place with nany of the men on campus.

READ CENTER, consisting of Beck House, Clark House, Curry House, and Landes House, participated in many events this year. Clark entered Homecoming in the float division while Beck helped needy families at Christmas and Curry sponsored a Christmas party at the Exchange Home.

Work and play had their place at Read as Clark held a Valentine dance, and Clark and Curry together entered I. U. Sing. Later, Clark matched opponents in the Campus Quiz Bowl.

On the more spectacular side, Read made the news when all Bloomington fire departments were dispatched to the dorm as a fire burned in the false roof above sixth floor Beck.

RESIDENTS OF TETER Quadrangle won first place in the Independent Division for Homecoming lawn displays this fall. The quadrangle participated in I. U. Sing in the spring and has won four first places in the Sing in the past.

During the Christmas season the underprivileged Children in Bloomington were treated to a party given by Teter residents. It was work, but it was fun, sponsoring dances which corresponded with holidays and seasons.

Individual floors participated in intramurals and received trophies in bowling.

THE THREAT THAT EXPANSION of Indiana University's residence system played on the life of Trees Center did nothing to halt the numerous and varied activities of the quadrangle. Already two of the halls have been vacated to make way for the soon to be constructed Forest Quadrangle, the student government of Trees will continue work.

In addition to the center's two major dances, the Christmas semi-formal and the Spring Formal, they sponsored a splash party, a winter carnival, and a Valentine Party. Their athletic program included all major intramural sports and something new, Kinsey Hollow Days, the Olympics of Trees Center.

SATURDAY, THAT WAS THE DAY THAT WAS provided the title of Wells Quadrangle's production for the 1964 I. U. Sing which won the over-all trophy. Their performance was a well done satire on Saturday classes. The singing group portrayed faculty and their views on Saturday classes and the students with their opposing views. They ended their performances with the New Christy Minstrel song, "Saturday Night."

These women also held the second, third, and sixth place IRHA 1964 Scholarship Trophy for the Women's Units.

AFTER A CLOSELY FOUGHT CENTER ELECTION, the officers of Wendell L. Willkie Quadrangle, I. U.'s newest living center, set out to establish the programs and government of the quad. Besides the women's eleven-story unit, Willkie housed co-operative units for men and women and the women's special academic unit, and will open a men's building in the fall of 1965.

Weathering mud and growing pains, Willkie residents joined forces to begin a lecture and a film series to celebrate Homecoming, Little 500, and Little Sisters' Weekend and to relax for the New Year's and Spring Formal dances.

After the pep rally they held an all campus dance in the lounge, winding up the occasion the following day with a reception for alumni.

An Awards Banquet, held every spring, honored the outstanding unit, and outstanding freshman, sophomore, junior, and senior. Academic excellence was achieved by Harding House as proven by the 1963-'64 Quiz Bowl trophy awarded to them, and was proven by Dewey House who claimed the Neilson Trophy, a traveling-trophy awarded for academic achievement.

dentistry

ACCORDING TO DR. M. K. HINE, Dean of the School of Dentistry since 1945, future plans include a general expansion of all facilities which have been located in Indianapolis since 1958. Dentistry students attend the Bloomington campus for two or three years and then transfer to the Indianapolis center for more concentrated work. Two of the outstanding features of the school are the large amount of dental research being done and the fact that the largest dental graduate school in the nation is maintained.

education

THE SCHOOL OF EDUCATION, headed by Dean H. G. Shane, has introduced a new teaching program called INSITE, or Instructional Systems in Teacher Education. Financed by a $747,200 Ford Foundation Grant, this program provides the student with a full semester of student teaching at full pay and the opportunity to achieve a master's degree in four years. In order to expand the Special Education Department, Dr. Boyd McCandless has established the Clinic Complex, a child study clinic.

AN EXPANDED CURRICULUM to meet the expanding needs of the student in the School of Law is the theme of this year's program. Dean Leon H. Wallace states that in the last two years the School of Law has widened its scope of subjects to include both domestic and international law as it is related to the United States. Enrollment in the school is up thirty per cent from last year with a total of over 900 students on both the Bloomington campus and the Indianapolis campus.

THE FORMAL ACTIVATION of construction of the new University Hospital is but one of the new programs instigated by the School of Medicine. In October the Medical Center was host to the Third International Conference for Biochemical Research on Cancer. Under the direction of Acting Dean John I. Nurnberger, the administration supports extra-curricular life through the student branch of the American Medical Association, the beginning of a student newspaper, and cooperation with the Senior Council.

ALWAYS ATTEMPTING TO keep up with advances in science, the School of Medicine appointed a new clinical council this fall to re-evaluate the goals of the school and to revamp the curricula. There seems to be little doubt, however, that lab work will remain.

music

THE SCHOOL OF MUSIC, under the leadership of Dean Wilfred C. Bain, had the honor of presenting Puccini's opera, "Turnadot" as the state of Indiana's contribution to the World's Fair in August, 1964. The past year the School of Music, which has more students than any other school, presented thirty-one performances of eight operas and one light musical. At present, two additional buildings are in the planning stage: a performance center and a teaching library center to be occupied in 1969-70.

IN ADDITION TO admitting its largest sophomore class, the School of Nursing achieved an important first this year by admitting its first male student. The school sponsors an active program for graduate nurses, which Dean Emily Holmquist describes as "orientated to improve skills in the care of cerebral disfunctions." Besides receiving practical training at Indianapolis, the students participate in such actvities as student government, intramural sports, and the Choraliers.

THE SCHOOL OF OPTOMETRY, whose main faculty offices are located in Swain Hall East, has its classes scattered all over the I. U. campus in seven different buildings. I. U. students receive help concerning eye examinations, glasses, contact lenses, and other services in the school's clinic located in Foley House. According to Director Henry Hofstetter, increased emphasis has been placed on the newly developed methods in the field of optometry.

the changing campus caught and preserved . . . a record of 1965

IN THE SHADOW of these buildings, we have run the gamut of emotion—worked, studied, lived. The University, dynamic and growing, has changed its contour with incredible speed even in the short years we have spent here. For those of us who will never return to Bloomington, and for those who will return, only to find bewildering innovation, this brief record of the campus, 1965, captures in print scenes more indelibly imprinted in memory.

MOODS ARE A PART of every individual. As students, we feel many moods—those of uncertainty, happiness, exhilaration, tenseness, sadness, and many more in our life here at Indiana University. The 1965 Arbutus has tried to recreate these moods through a word, a picture—hopeful that you will remember your days here on campus—hopeful, too, that your memories will be enjoyable ones.

WE, WHO HAVE CREATED this book through all the strains one can imagine, have given a sigh of relief, but we are also proud and happy to have given a part of ourselves to this lasting publication. We owe much to many. It takes cooperation from the students, faculty, administrators, and even the weather. It takes understanding on the part of the photographers. This year, we had Mr. Owen Roberts of Roberts Studio, Bedford, who photographed the seniors; Mr. William Tennell, Bloomington, photographer for the various groups; and Richard Horwitz and Jerry L. Mitchell, who happily snapped cameras for the ARBUTUS Queen and her court. Then, too, it takes a printing company, and again this year we turned to North State Press of Hammond, with help, encouragement, and understanding coming from Mr. Wes DeRoo. To Mr. Jack Bundy and The S. K. Smith Company of Chicago, we owe our gratitude for this year's cover. Finally, as all young students need guidance and a shoulder to cry on, we were given some outstanding advisers. Professor John E. Stempel, Department of Journalism, looked over our work while I. Wilmer Counts guided us in the picture phase of the 1965 ARBUTUS. No more can be said to each, except a well-deserved thank you. To those of you who read this now, and later, we hope that the 1965 ARBUTUS recreates the feelings and events for you as they truly happened this year.
